Sportsmen's Group Gives Its Policy For Lake Battle

The Pickaway County Farmers and Sportsmen's Association outlined Saturday its official policy in reference to the roaring controversy over plans for the proposed Memorial Lake.

Announcement of policy followed a conference by spokesmen for the group Friday. The statement was released by Bob Wolf, secretary of the association.

The sportsmen's group is regarded as a rallying force by the fast-growing number of district residents seeking some way to oppose plans of the Ohio Wildlife Council. The association, for this reason, has announced a public meeting on the lake dispute will be held in Memorial Hall at 8 p. m. next Thursday.

Outlining its official stand, the association hit first of all at the council's proposal to reduce the size of the lake itself by approximately two-thirds. The association went on record with decisions to:

"Resist all efforts to reduce the size of the lake, with one exception—a reduction of five feet in spillway height to accomplish the additional five feet of freeboard demanded by the Department of Natural Resources in its original plans for the 161-acre lake.

"AFFIRM OUR belief in the construction of an earthen dam, and declare that any substantial reconstruction entailing excavation

Any Day Now, Great Lakes Smelt To Run

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Any day now, in some little stream connected to the Great Lakes, the first smelt will answer the call of warming water and start swimming upstream to spawn.

When that happens, one of the zaniest of outdoor sports will be underway.

The first spawning smelt will be followed immediately by uncounted millions which will swarm up to the streams in hordes.

When the Great Lakes water reached a certain temperature (which, by the way, is not known), one of nature's wonderful mechanisms goes into operation.

The smelt, which normally dwell in large and open water, head for the nearest small stream. The silvery little fish seldom go over six or seven inches in length, but when they are at the peak of their spawning run, they pack the streams from bank to bank.

If you think that behavior is strange, you ought to see what happens to the human species.

They swarm to the streams in thousands. Dressed in warm but motley clothing, they plunge into the water armed with the strangest assortment of equipment you ever saw. Dipnets, bushel baskets, gunny sacks, old hats, dishpans—anything that will serve the purpose is plunged with wild abandon into the myriads of fish.

Like kids at a penny scramble, the humans gleefully scoop up and make off with hundreds of pounds of the tasty smelt.

Then the monumental fish fries spring up all over.

Threatening Ike Brings Arrest

NEW YORK (AP)—A Puerto Rican Nationalist, a one-time mental patient, was arrested last night while telephoning the FBI about his plans to kill President Eisenhower.

Police identified him as Jose Rivera Colon, 30, an itinerant paint sprayer. He is to be arraigned today on charges of threatening the President.

While FBI men talked to Colon on the telephone, his call was traced and police rushed to the drug-store booth to pick him up before the call ended.

"Request reconsideration by the Wildlife Council on the basis of possible multiple use of the water to be impounded; with the thought of increasing instead of decreasing our excessively low water table.

"To remind those, whose job it is to make determination, that 60 acres of water will also eliminate several miles of good shoreline fishing.

"To state that the original plan, calling for 211 acres of park area, would—in our studied opinion—be large enough to take care of

Opinion Sample Shows Protest Of Lake Plan

A sampling of public opinion made by The Herald continues to indicate that an overwhelming majority of persons are protesting against the change of plans that will reduce the proposed Memorial Lake to about one-third the size originally contemplated.

Many believe there has been a general misleading of the public in putting out information about the lake, and say they can not understand the reasoning behind the alteration of the plans, or that such reasoning has never been explained.

One person protesting vigorously against the new plan is John A. Gaffis, Circleville Route 3, who said property on the state for construction of the dam and lake.

"I don't believe in cutting down the size of the lake," he said. "We were promised the bigger lake and that is what we should have. When they wanted to buy my land I would not sell until I was told what kind of a lake they intended to build.

"An engineer made the surveys and told me there would be a lake of at least 150 acres. Then they found it could be 161 acres. So I sold them more property than anyone else living out here. We sold, and we signed up for the big lake. Now it seems like everything has changed. Everything has gone wrong since the administration changed.

GOPster Labels Dem Move To Cut Income Tax 'Phony'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) today characterized as "an expensive phony" a plan of Sen. George (D-Ga) to cut individual income taxes by sharply raising exemptions for each taxpayer and his dependents.

Flanders made the remark as Republicans in Congress sought to tighten their defense against the Democratic drive to raise the exemptions.

The Vermont senator, who serves on the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said the George proposal would mean only "peanuts" to low-income taxpayers.

For instance, he said, the benefit would be only 80 cents a week to an individual in the low wage bracket with no dependents.

But George's plan would be expensive to the government, he said, costing $4½ billion in revenue this year, and about $8 billion in succeeding years.

THE VETERAN southerner, who is senior Democrat on the finance committee, proposes to boost the exemptions from the present $600 to $800 this year, and to $1,000 for 1955 and thereafter.

all who will use it in CENTRAL OHIO.

"To emphasize that it is the opinion of some engineers that the COST of the original 161 acres would be very little more than the actual expenditure necessary for only 50 to 60 acres of water.

"To point out that this lake site was judged by men in charge, at the time this dam was built, to be one of the best possible in Ohio. And we ask why this recent change has taken place.

"TO SAY THAT it is our judgment that the people of Pickaway County wanted a small fishing lake when this project was first proposed to the State of Ohio, and they at no time requested a large park in connection with the lake. We do not believe there is any change in their thinking—so, until such time as we are convinced by public opinion—we will still demand that the original 161 acres of water be impounded to form a beautiful, as well as useful body of water. And that it will be something to which Pickaway County and the State of Ohio may point with pride.

"To state, finally, to all concerned, that it is our judgment that from the benefits to be derived from this construction, that a dry dam will serve a better purpose as a flood control measure than anything to be gained by a little, 50-to-60 acre puddle of water, for which there could be very limited possible use."

The association asked for a large turnout at next Thursday's public meeting.

Education Chief Chides Strikers

COLUMBUS (AP)—Clyde Hisson, state director of education, yesterday urged parents of striking students at South Point High School in Lawrence County to "get them back in school."

Hisson said defiance of authority "with or without the tacit approval of parents," is becoming an increasingly difficult problem. He said it must end or "good teaching will be impossible."

Between 75 and 100 South Point High School students continued the strike yesterday, the third day of the walkout. The striking students won support of a majority of about 250 adults who attended a meeting with school board members Thursday night.

Three of five board members promised a special meeting Monday night. The students walked out in protest to the firing of two teachers.

FACING a new rumpus, according to reports, in his Red-hunting Senate subcommittee which may end only if committee counsel Roy M. Cohn resigns or is fired, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R), Wisconsin (left), huddles with Cohn in Washington. Directly connected with McCarthy's recent feud with Army Secretary Robert B. Stevens, the expected fracas is said to be an outgrowth of a still-secret Army report on alleged coddling of G. David Schine (right), buddy of Cohn drafted into the Army a few months ago. Cohn, it is said, repeatedly intervened with the Army to get favored treatment for Schine.

Give Signatures! Block This Folly!

Aroused by disclosure that the Ohio Wildlife Council has already closed its official mind on the Memorial Lake project, residents of Pickaway County were clamoring Saturday for immediate and vigorous action to oppose the unexpected move recently announced for the state agency.

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, confirmed Friday that the wildlife group has already determined what the details should be in the revised plan for the long-suffering lake-and-park center. It was previously believed the council had released the new proposal only as a test of public opinion.

It was not immediately clear what official steps would be taken here to call for a halt in the new planning. Such action may wait for a mass meeting scheduled in Memorial Hall at 8 p. m. next Thursday, under leadership of the Pickaway County Farmers and Sportsmen's Association.

It was determined here, however, that full and immediate protest will be made, and a needed counter-action taken. Residents of the district are determined to enforce upon the wildlife council, and all other agencies involved, that the overwhelming majority of them are opposed to the latest plan—a proposal to reduce the size of the lake by two-thirds and make other important changes that would trim the beauty and facilities of the original idea.

Therefore, as a public service to block any attempt to push through this monument to political folly in Pickaway County, The Herald with its issue invites the public to add its signatures to a letter of opposition, which will then be forwarded to the wildlife council.

The communication originally appeared as a letter to the Editor in Thursday's issue of The Herald, and for the convenience of our readers it is printed again today on Page Two.

The letter is waiting for signatures now.

They must be made in person. And they should be made at the earliest possible opportunity.

Ex-Patrolman Pleads Innocent

IRONTON (AP)—A suspended state highway patrolman pleaded innocent yesterday to a manslaughter charge in the hit-skip death of a Coal Grove policeman.

Robert Brickles, 29, remained on $3,000 bond. The state charges Brickles' car hit and killed Patrolman Carl Green, 31, on March 5.

Brickles was off-duty at the time of the accident and was not driving a state car, investigators said.

Other charges, including reckless driving and speeding, will be held in abeyance pending completion of the manslaughter case.

Segregation Ending

COLUMBUS (AP)—Segregation in Ohio National Guard units is set to end within two weeks, Maj. Gen. Leo H. Kreber, Ohio adjutant general said yesterday.

Red MIG Attacks U. S. Navy Planes

Czechs Claim 2 Yanks Invade Vital Area Behind Iron Curtain

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two American Navy carrier-based planes were attacked by a Communist MIG near the Czech-German border yesterday. Czechoslovakia charged immediately that they had flown over its vital uranium center at Jachymov, 35 miles inside the Iron Curtain and fired the first shot.

The Navy said one of the two American propeller-driven planes was damaged but both pilots managed to bring their aircraft safely down at Neubiberg airbases in the American zone of Germany.

A Navy spokesman in London said an investigation into the shootings was ordered by the U. S. Sixth Fleet. He said first reports showed empty aviation ammunition cartridges were found on German soil after the attack. One American spokesman in Munich said, however, the planes had "inadvertently" crossed into Czech territory. Clouds covered much of the frontier area.

A Sixth Fleet spokesman said the two planes had been part of a formation of 45 jet and propeller-driven planes sent out over the Alps on a "familiarization" flight.

THE CZECH broadcast said one of that country's jets intercepted the American aircraft and demanded that they follow it to a landing inside Czechoslovakia.

"However, the American planes refused to follow this demand and attacked the Czech plane," the Prague Radio report claimed. "The Czech plane then used its weapons in self-defense."

The Navy said the two planes were on a routine training flight off the Essex-Class carrier Randolph. The Randolph is attached to the Sixth Fleet, which is the backbone of the NATO naval defense system.

The planes had been flying over the American zone of Austria at its junction with the state of Bavaria and Czechoslovakia.

The two Navy pilots still were at the Neubiberg Airbase this morning, but the commanding officer there said he was ordered to answer no questions concerning the incident. He refused to identify the pilots.

Latin Parley Near OK Of Dulles Paper

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A warning to international Communists to keep their hands off the Western Hemisphere was set for a decisive vote today by the 20 nations attending the 10th Inter-American Conference here.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, virtually assured of a major diplomatic victory in getting approval of an anti-Red resolution, planned to leave for Washington today.

A majority of the nations meeting here threw their support to the Dulles proposals for united action to prevent international Communists from gaining a foothold in the Americas.

Some, however, demanded amendments to the U. S. draft resolution which would spell out more specifically a guarantee that this would not permit intervention into the internal affairs of any one state.

Guatemala, accused by U. S. officials in Washington of being Communist-dominated, has fought a bitter, lone battle against such a declaration by the conference. That country's representatives here deny their government is under Red influence and claim they are fighting for democracy.

The Red issue has been debated heatedly in the political-judicial committee of the conference for a week. Dulles led the fight for passage of his resolution calling on American states to take joint action whenever any one of their number falls under international Communist influence.

Mexico led the way in trying to get the proposed resolution amended to call for joint action only if a country were threatened by outside agents.

Seattle Bank Bandits Down 3 Cops, Lose Most Of Loot

SEATTLE (AP)—Three bank robbers who shot their way through a police trio, killing one and wounding two others, were the objects of a virtually clueless search throughout the Northwest today.

The policemen never fired a shot yesterday morning as they were cut down by the three men who had just finished robbing the Greenwood Bank of $97,700 most of which they dropped in their getaway.

The bandits, wearing horn-rimmed spectacles and false noses which some bystanders first thought were part of a joke, entered the bank at 10:40 a. m.

An employee pressed a concealed alarm bar with his foot and three policemen in one-man patrol cars responded—their sirens screaming as they neared the bank.

"George, somebody's sounded the alarm," one bandit shouted as he ran toward the front lobby. Police Sgt. Howard Slessman, shotgun at his side, was running through the outer door. The bandit fired and Slessman fell, a bullet wound in his neck.

AS SLESSMAN fell, Patrolman Frank W. Hardy, 30, arrived and jumped from his car, running toward the parking lot on the east side of the bank. A second bandit fired through a window, hitting Hardy in the head. He dropped to the sidewalk, mortally wounded.

The third officer, Vernon R. Chase, arrived just as two of the gunmen broke through a side door. One fired quickly and Chase was down a few feet from Hardy, a bullet wound in the chest.

The third kicked out a plate glass window and jumped through. He dropped a sack containing $90,800 as he fled.

The robbers' getaway automobile was found later, a few miles away, its motor still warm and a .45 caliber bullet on the front seat. No further clues of real import have been uncovered, police officials reported.

Sen. McCarthy In Center Of Party Squabble

Vice-President Booked For 10:30 Tonight As Probe Of Prober Warms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon states the case for the Republican administration tonight in a radio-television address while a family fight rages within the GOP over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and some of his investigative aides.

Yesterday McCarthy bitterly protested Army Department officials had attempted to "black-mail" his investigations subcommittee into dropping a probe of the Army.

He made public a document he claimed represented Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens as trying to divert the group's attention to a search for wrongdoing in the Army's sister services—Navy, Air Force plus the Defense Department.

Stevens and John G. Adams, the Army's general counsel retorted that such accusations were untrue. McCarthy had said Adams told him several months ago a report embarrassing to the subcommittee would be made public unless an investigation of the Army were called off.

BEFORE THE DAY was over some Republicans as well as Democrats in the Senate were demanding investigations to determine who is telling the truth in the crossfire of accusations.

Nixon had been designated last Monday to deliver the party's reply to criticism by Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee. One of Stevenson's thrusts was a description of the GOP as "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

President Eisenhower had back-

Secret Data Said Taken From A-Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Substantial quantities of secret documents, related possibly to hydrogen bomb production, reportedly are missing from the government's huge atomic plant at Hanford, Wash.

Rep. Pelly (R-Wash) said yesterday the Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed informally that certain papers have vanished. Pelly, who said he first heard reports of this late last year, added that AEC did not tell him the nature of the missing classified material, but that he took it for granted it was "top secret."

Pelly said he had no indication the data was stolen by spies, but he asked for an investigation by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee because, he said, "even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

The congressman reported Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the atomic committee has agreed to look into the situation and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford shortly.

An AEC spokesman said the commission would have nothing to say for the time being.

Hanford's main mission is production of plutonium, a fissionable material, for atomic bombs.

However, Dr. Ralph Lapp, a scientist who worked on the World War II Manhattan project, said recently that material used in the first big hydrogen blast in November, 1952 was made at Hanford.

Dr. Lapp identified this material as tritium, a heavy form of hydrogen.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif.

Ohio Highway Engineering Linked To Legislature's Moves

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Legislature has a lot to do with engineering work on Ohio's major thoroughfares, whether it realizes it or not.

That's because it has the final and only say on whether new road revenues can be used in planning huge projects designed to revamp Ohio's major thoroughfare system. The new revenues come from the last one cent a gallon gasoline tax and the axle-mile tax on trucks.

These funds have been pouring into the State Highway Construction Council road building fund. Practically all the money the council will get will go into this year's $115 million dollar road program.

The middle of next year these new revenues go into a fund the state will use to retire half a billion dollars worth of road bonds a year—but bond money can't be used for engineering.

But if funds set aside to retire the bonds are larger than needed, the amount left over can be used for engineering—if the Legislature appropriates the money for that.

If the Legislature does not, engineering money either must be found elsewhere or projects don't get very far along.

The state can sell up to 125 million dollars worth of road bonds a year—but bond money can't be used for engineering.

The recent special session of the Legislature approved the governor's road program to be built with "council funds" when the highway department saw it needed eight million dollars of council money for engineering so it could keep working up new projects.

The highway department still gets its highway improvement fund, which amounts to 12 million dollars a year. This money is for the 12,000 miles of state roads not deemed important enough to be included in the 6,200 miles of major state thoroughfares.

This money comes from the second 2 cents of the 5 cents in state gasoline taxes you pay. It can be used for engineering, and is being so used. But every dime spent for engineering means 10 cents less available for use on keeping up the secondary roads.

It probably will be June 1 before road bond money is available for use. First bonds can be sold after April 19, and the money should be in the treasury by June 1. It won't be needed before then, the department says.

That's the money that will pay for the bulk of Ohio's 140 to 150 million dollar a year major road building program. Local governments and the federal government will pay the rest of the bill.

Cloudy, windy, colder with snow flurries tonight. Lowest in 20's. Sunday cloudy, windy and colder with snow flurries. Yesterday's high, 47; low, 44. At 8 a. m. today, 50. Year ago, high, 65; low, 42. River, 3.32 ft.

Education Chief Chides Strikers

COLUMBUS (AP)—Clyde Hissong, state director of education, yesterday urged parents of striking students at South Point High School in Lawrence County to "get them back in school."

Hissong said defiance of authority "with or without the tacit approval of parents," is becoming an increasingly difficult problem. He said it must end or "good teaching will be impossible."

Between 75 and 100 South Point High School students continued the strike yesterday, the third day of the walkout. The striking students won support of a majority of about 250 adults who attended a meeting with school board members Thursday night.

Three of five board members promised a special meeting Monday night. The students walked out in protest to the firing of two teachers.

As the storm progressed, winds that had buffeted the Plains States with gusts up to 100 miles an hour diminished slowly. But hail borne by a howling wind and accompanied by lightning lashed Grand Rapids, Mich.

Nebraska bore the brunt in the early stages as the storm substituted snow for dust in its drive across the midcontinent.

Snow to depths of 10 inches was reported in Chadron in western Nebraska. The Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. reported 1,630 long line circuits out in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota. It said 3,600 farm phones were out of service in the three states.

In Kansas City, the Weather Bureau said the storm would move northeast through Iowa and Minnesota into Wisconsin and Michigan, and eastward out of Oklahoma and Texas. The weatherman said some rain was in prospect north of a line extending roughly eastward from St. Joseph, Mo., northeast of St. Louis to Cincinnati. He said falling temperatures were in prospect for the South as warm air gave way to cold.

Meanwhile, it seemed clear the administration's tax strategy on Capitol Hill would be to let $912 million of excise tax cuts voted by the House Wednesday slide through the Senate without a serious fight, and to concentrate on beating the income tax exemption increase campaign.

The Senate Finance Committee is to conduct hearings on the excise measure next week. It will hear Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's testimony in opposition to the cuts Wednesday.

However, key committee members said privately they knew of only two votes out of the 15 on the group in favor of knocking out the House excise reductions.

These presumably would be cast by Senators Byrd (D-Va) and Williams (R-Del). Both contend that the budget should be balanced before taxes are reduced.

FACING a new rumpus, according to reports, in his Red-hunting Senate subcommittee which may end only if committee counsel Roy M. Cohn resigns or is fired, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R, Wis.) IRONTON (AP)—A suspended state highway patrolman pleaded innocent yesterday to a manslaughter charge in the hit-skip death of a Coal Grove policeman.

Robert Brickles, 29, remained on $3,000 bond. The state charges Brickles' car hit and killed Patrolman Carl Green, 31, on March 5.

Brickles was off-duty at the time of the accident and was not driving a state car, investigators said.

Other charges, including reckless driving and speeding, will be held in abeyance pending completion of the manslaughter case.

Red MIG Attacks U. S. Navy Planes

Czechs Claim 2 Yanks Invade Vital Area Behind Iron Curtain

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two American Navy carrier-based planes were attacked by a Communist MIG near the Czech-German border yesterday. Czechoslovakia charged immediately that they had flown over its vital uranium center at Jachymov, 35 miles inside the Iron Curtain and fired the first shot.

The Navy said one of the two American propeller-driven planes was damaged but both pilots managed to bring their aircraft safely down at Neubiberg airbases in the American zone of Germany.

A Navy spokesman in London said an investigation into the shootings was ordered by the U. S. Sixth Fleet. He said first reports showed empty aviation ammunition cartridges were found on German soil after the attack. One American spokesman in Munich said, however, the planes had "inadvertently" crossed into Czech territory. Clouds covered much of the frontier area.

A Sixth Fleet spokesman said the two planes had been part of a formation of 45 jet and propeller-driven planes sent out over the Alps on a "familiarization" flight.

THE CZECH broadcast said one of that country's jets intercepted the American aircraft and demanded that they follow it to a landing inside Czechoslovakia.

"However, the American planes refused to follow this demand and attacked the Czech plane," the Prague Radio report claimed. "The Czech plane then used its weapons in self-defense."

The Navy said the two planes were on a routine training flight off the Essex-Class carrier Randolph. The Randolph is attached to the Sixth Fleet, which is the backbone of the NATO naval defense system.

The planes had been flying over the American zone of Austria at its junction with the state of Bavaria and Czechoslovakia.

The two Navy pilots still were at the Neubiberg Airbase this morning, but the commanding officer there said he was ordered to answer no questions concerning the incident. He refused to identify the pilots.

Latin Parley Near OK Of Dulles Paper

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A warning to international Communists to keep their hands off the Western Hemisphere was set for a decisive vote today by the 20 nations attending the 10th Inter-American Conference here.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, virtually assured of a major diplomatic victory in getting approval of an anti-Red resolution, planned to leave for Washington today.

A majority of the nations meeting here threw their support to the Dulles proposals for united action to prevent international Communists from gaining a foothold in the Americas.

Some, however, demanded amendments to the U. S. draft resolution which would spell out more specifically a guarantee that this would not permit intervention into the internal affairs of any one state.

Guatemala, accused by U. S. officials in Washington of being Communist-dominated, has fought a bitter, lone battle against such a declaration by the conference. That country's representatives here deny their government is under Red influence and claim they are fighting for democracy.

The Red issue has been debated heatedly in the political-judicial committee of the conference for a week. Dulles led the fight for passage of his resolution calling on American states to take joint action whenever any one of their number falls under international Communist influence.

Mexico led the way in trying to get the proposed resolution amended to call for joint action only if a country were threatened by outside agents.

Polly said he had no indication the data was stolen by spies, but he asked for an investigation by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee because, he said, "even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

The congressman reported Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the atomic committee has agreed to look into the situation and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford shortly.

An AEC spokesman said the commission would have nothing to say for the time being.

Hanford's main mission is production of plutonium, a fissionable material, for atomic bombs.

However, Dr. Ralph Lapp, a scientist who worked on the World War II Manhattan project, said recently that material used in the first big hydrogen blast in November, 1952 was made at Hanford. Dr. Lapp identified this material as tritium, a heavy form of hydrogen.

Sen. McCarthy In Center Of Party Squabble

Vice-President Booked For 10:30 Tonight As Probe Of Prober Warms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon states the case for the Republican administration tonight in a radio-television address while a family fight rages within the GOP over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and some of his investigative aides.

Yesterday McCarthy bitterly protested Army Department officials had attempted to "black-mail" his investigations subcommittee into dropping a probe of the Army.

He made public a document he claimed represented Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens as trying to divert the group's attention to a search for wrongdoing in the Army's sister services—Navy, Air Force plus the Defense Department.

Stevens and John G. Adams, the Army's general counsel, retorted that such accusations were untrue. McCarthy had said Adams told him several months ago a report embarrassing to the subcommittee would be made public unless an investigation of the Army were called off.

BEFORE THE DAY was over some Republicans as well as Democrats in the Senate were demanding investigations to determine who is telling the truth in the crossfire of accusations.

Nixon had been designated last Monday to deliver the party's reply to criticism by Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee. One of Stevenson's thrusts was a description of the GOP as "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Secret Data Said Taken From A-Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Substantial quantities of secret documents, related possibly to hydrogen bomb production, reportedly are missing from the government's huge atomic plant at Hanford, Wash.

Rep. Pelly (R-Wash) said yesterday the Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed informally that certain papers have vanished. Pelly, who said he first heard reports of this late last year, added that AEC did not tell him the nature of the missing classified material, but that he took it for granted it was "top secret."

Pelly said he had no indication the data was stolen by spies, but he asked for an investigation by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee because, he said, "even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

The congressman reported Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the atomic committee has agreed to look into the situation and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford shortly.

Seattle Bank Bandits Down 3 Cops, Lose Most Of Loot

SEATTLE (AP)—Three bank robbers who shot their way through a police riot, killing one and wounding two others, were the objects of a virtually clueless search throughout the Northwest today.

The policemen never fired a shot yesterday morning as they were cut down by the three men who had just finished robbing the Greenwood Bank of $97,700 most of which they dropped in their getaway.

The bandits, wearing horn-rimmed spectacles and false noses which some bystanders first thought were part of a joke, entered the bank at 10:40 a. m.

An employee pressed a concealed alarm bar with his foot and three policemen in one-man patrol cars responded—their sirens screaming as they neared the bank.

"George, somebody's sounded the alarm," one bandit shouted as he ran toward the front lobby. Police Sgt. Howard Slessman, shotgun at his side, was running through the outer door. The bandit fired and Slessman fell, a bullet wound in his neck.

AS SLESSMAN fell, Patrolman Frank W. Hardy, 30, arrived and jumped from his car, running toward the parking lot on the east side of the bank. A second bandit fired through a window, hitting Hardy in the head. He dropped to the sidewalk, mortally wounded.

The third officer, Vernon R. Chase, arrived just as two of the gunmen broke through a side door. One fired quickly and Chase was down a few feet from Hardy, a bullet wound in the chest.

The third kicked out a plate glass window and jumped through. He dropped a sack containing $90,800 as he fled.

The robbers' getaway automobile was found later, a few miles away, its motor still warm and a .45 caliber bullet on the front seat. No further clues of real import have been uncovered, police officials reported.

Ohio Highway Engineering Linked To Legislature's Moves

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Legislature has a lot to do with engineering work on Ohio's major thoroughfares, whether it realizes it or not.

That's because it has the final and only say on whether new road revenues can be used in planning huge projects designed to revamp Ohio's major thoroughfare system. The new revenues come from the last one cent a gallon gasoline tax and the axle-mile tax on trucks.

These funds have been pouring into the State Highway Construction Council road building fund. Practically all the money the council will get will go into this year's $115 million dollar road program.

The middle of next year these new revenues go into a fund the state will use to retire half a billion engineering, can eat up 10 or are yet to be issued.

But you can't build roads without plans, and plans take a heap of engineering work. The engineering, both preliminary and construction engineering, can eat up 10 or 12 per cent of a project's entire cost.

The state can sell up to 125 million dollars worth of road bonds a year—but bond money can't be used for engineering.

But if funds set aside to retire the bonds are larger than needed, the amount left over can be used for engineering—if the Legislature appropriates the money for that.

If the Legislature does not, engineering money either must be found elsewhere or projects don't get very far along.

The state highway department has had to do a bit of legal juggling of funds to get the 115 million dollar 1954 major road program under way.

The recent special session of the Legislature approved the governor's road program to be built with "council funds" when the highway department saw it needed eight million dollars of council money for engineering so it could keep working up new projects.

The highway department still gets its highway improvement fund, which amounts to 12 million dollars a year. This money is for the 12,000 miles of state roads not deemed important enough to be included in the 6,200 miles of major state thoroughfares.

This money comes from the second 2 cents of the 5 cents in state gasoline taxes you pay. It can be used for engineering, and is being so used. But every dime spent for engineering means 10 cents less available for use on keeping up the secondary roads.

It probably will be June 1 before road bond money is available for use. First bonds can be sold after April 19, and the money should be in the treasury by June 1. It won't be needed before then, the department says.

That's the money that will pay for the bulk of Ohio's 140 to 150 million dollar a year major road building program. Local governments and the federal government will pay the rest of the bill.

Opinion Sample Shows Protest Of Lake Plan

Franklin counties as well, and they all want the big lake. In fact, I haven't talked to a single person yet who favors the plan the way it is now."

Sterling Corman, a Circleville store owner, indicated he is disgusted with the change in plans. "I think Pickaway County is entitled to as much as any other county in the state, but we aren't getting anything," he declared. Since the Pickaway project was first proposed, other lakes have been built, or construction started, in a number of other counties and at a cost of millions of dollars.

"Yet they can't find a few hundred dollars to provide a decent lake for Pickaway County. This is one of the best farming areas in the state, and we need the lake. I can see no sense in cutting down the size of the lake from 161 acres to where they've got it now."

Karl Herrmann, county probation officer, said:

"I'm not a sportsman, but if that lake can help the general recreation picture here I'm in favor of it. It would be a fine thing to have the large lake that was originally proposed."

A Circleville automobile dealer who is president of the Chamber of Commerce, Wes Edstrom, had this to say:

"Since money already has been spent for the large lake, I don't see why we can't have it. It certainly seems like a lot of politics are getting mixed up in the issue. On the street today I heard someone say that if the name were changed to Lausche Lake we'd probably get the big lake built in a hurry."

However, a retired farmer who used to live near the site of the project, believes the smaller lake is better than no lake at all. He is Mr. J. Valentine, Route 4. He said: "I think we better let them go ahead with the present plans and finish the thing up. It looks like the sportsmen are not going to get anywhere, and they have been trying for the last several years and haven't got any results."

CHS May Expand Adults Education

The possibility that Circleville High School may add to its special classes for grown-ups is seen hinted in the success of a course in bookkeeping and accounting.

Offered this year for the first time in the history of the school, the adult business training has attracted wide interest. The class has met each Wednesday evening since last November.

Thirty-three members enrolled to study the fundamentals of bookkeeping and accounting. Virgil Cress is the instructor. The course will end April 14.

Some of the big trees of California may eventually reach an age of 10,000 years.

Minister's Wife Hurt In Crash Friday Evening

Mrs. Gwendolen Mitchell, 49, wife of the Rev. Donald E. Mitchell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, was injured at 6:30 p. m. Friday on the Walnut Creek Pike at the intersection of Route 752, when the car driven by her husband collided with another driven by Alfred C. Matteson, 30, of Ashville.

The impact threw Mrs. Mitchell from the car and she fell between the two vehicles as they were brought to a stop. She received a bruised forehead and an injury to her right ankle. The Rev. Mr. Mitchell, a daughter, Donna, 16, who was riding with her parents, and Matteson, escaped unhurt. Deputy Sheriff Carl White said the crash occurred when the Mitchell car failed to stop at the intersection.

Two others escaped injury in another crash on the same pike, one mile north of the Route 752 intersection when William Buzzard, 50, of Columbus, drove his car across the line into the path of another car driven by Paul F. O'Day, 19, of Ashville, at 1:30 a. m. Saturday. Buzzard was arrested by Deputy White for driving under the influence of liquor.

5 Persons Killed In Apartment Fire

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—A dingy apartment in a blighted area went up in flames here early today killing five persons.

Nineteen escaped, some through the heroism of off duty sailors from the nearby U. S. Navy submarine base.

Sailors flocking to the scene from New London's night spots, closing at just about the time the fire broke out, aided firemen and policemen in catching men, women and children who dropped from second and third floor windows.

THIS CAR IS CERTAINLY RIDING HIGH as it is partially suspended in mid-air by the gusher it created when it hit and snapped off a fire hydrant in Los Angeles. It was held aloft for 15 minutes by the pressure. Miss Jean Reiser, the driver, escaped unhurt.

Capitol Hill Highlights This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—A prolonged uproar revolving around one man—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy—cast into seeming whippers this week congressional happenings that would have amounted to quite an earful in more normal times.

The Wisconsin Republican's basic aim, he says, is to root out those who would destroy this country in a Communist conspiracy. But from one day to the next he was in running battle with first one, then another combatant not usually identified with the Kremlin.

The week was already off to a fast start from a radio-televized charge by Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic choice for president, that the Republican party was "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

McCarthy said he wanted free radio-TV time to answer Stevenson. But Chairman Leonard Hall of the Republican National Committee said he to it, got the networks to allot time to the party instead. With President Eisenhower's okay Vice President Nixon was named for the job.

McCarthy hired himself a lawyer to press his case for nationwide rebuttal, meanwhile availing himself of one broadcaster's offer to give what the senator termed a partial answer.

Sen. Flanders of Vermont, in one of the first Republican attacks on McCarthy on the Senate floor, leaped into the fray by asking if his colleague was not "doing his best to shatter" the party. Eisenhower agreed with Flanders that there was "great danger" of splitting the GOP. McCarthy playfully told Flanders, "You vote less for the Republicans than any other member of the party so quit advising me how to be a good Republican."

The inquiry by McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee went right along, but departed on some tangents not according to the script. Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, summoned to the witness stand in part of the senator's campaign to show how the Army handles alleged Reds, denied she had ever been a Communist. Democrats on the committee drew out that two other women by the same name live in Washington.

Then the Army gave some members of the group a report saying McCarthy and the subcommittee's chief counsel, Roy Cohn, interceded for David Schine, a former subcommittee consultant now in the Army as a private. The report cited alleged instances where it said McCarthy and Cohn exerted pressure for special treatment of Schine.

The Wisconsin senator fired back with a protest that Army officials had attempted to "blackmail" him into dropping a probe of the Army. This the Army denied.

All this and much more spilled over the dam before the heralded hour when Nixon was to deliver the official answer to Stevenson. Nixon promised he would "not dodge the issues" in his speech. And with the McCarthy controversy spilling over into so many a nook and cranny, it did not seem there was much place to hide.

STATEHOOD

A near-united Democratic front in the Senate succeeded in tying, 46-43, a proposal for Alaska's statehood on to the Hawaii statehood bill. This foreshadowed another close vote on the Senate's final choice, but not before more hours of oratory.

CHAVEZ-HURLEY

A Senate elections subcommittee decided 2 to 1, the Republicans against the Democrat, that the seat of Sen. Chavez (D-NM) should be declared vacant because of alleged irregularities in the 1952 New Mexico election. Chavez' official victory was challenged by the GOP opponent for his seat, Patrick J. Hurley. Democrats were lining up strongly against Chavez' ouster, especially since they now have a one-member Senate margin over the Republicans.

TAXES

With landslide momentum the House rolled to the Senate, 411-3, an excise tax bill trimming many important sales levies down to 10 per cent. The measure would lop off more Treasury revenue than Eisenhower would like, but it seemed assured of easy traveling right on to the White House.

We Oppose!

To Our Readers:

To Our Readers: The following letter was originally intended as a communication to the Ohio Wildlife Council, protesting the council's new plans for the Memorial Lake project.

Since its recent appearance as a Letter to the Editor, however, it has received such widespread applause from our readers that it has now been made a formal expression of policy by The Circleville Herald. As such, therefore, The Herald now invites all those who share the same views to add their signatures to it.

This can be done by calling in person either at the office of The Herald, 210 N. Court St., or at Circleville Fire Department on E. Franklin St., where a copy of the letter will be held for signature purposes. The letter with all the signatures will then be forwarded to the Ohio Wildlife Council.

Your department's decision to reduce the size of Ohio's monument to political folly in Pickaway county may be understandable from the viewpoint of a politician, but never will be comprehended by residents of the most neglected area in the state.

Memorial Lake as originally planned was a worthwhile undertaking. Not only would it have provided recreational facilities for vast numbers of Ohioans, but it would have been an important move along the line of water conservation.

The program was entirely too fine to let fall into the political merry-go-round, but there it landed. Conceived and designed under a Republican administration the lake dam and spillway were constructed under a Democratic administration. After spending more than $200,000 the Democrats suddenly discovered that the original plans for the dam were inadequate and some $200,000 more would have to be spent to make the dam and spillway safe.

Here in Pickaway county we never have been able to learn whether the Republican "engineers" who prepared the original plans or the Democratic "engineers" who accepted and executed them were ward heelers or just needy politicians. Certainly none of them was an engineer.

Except locally we have heard no censure of the manner in which our tax dollars have been thrown away on this project. But the censure here is loud and long and, believe us, it will continue. No reasonable explanation ever has been forthcoming from the State Capital. That is as expected for there could be none.

We are not in need of another roadside park, particularly one that is hidden far from any main highway. We already have two roadside parks, one in the northwestern corner of the county along a road of little travel and which serves little if any purpose.

If you gather from this communication that we oppose the new Memorial Lake plan your comprehension is commendable. We suggest that if your present plan is the best that can be offered that you divert the necessary money to another county of more political importance.

Monroe Sheriff Gets Top Honor

COLUMBUS (AP)—Francis L. Sulsberger, 33-year-old sheriff of Monroe County, was named Ohio's "Outstanding Sheriff of 1953" by the Ohio Eagles lodge last night. This is the first time the Eagles have picked an "outstanding sheriff." Sulsberger will receive the award in June at the Eagles state convention in Cleveland.

Sulsberger received the award for solving the mystery surrounding the death of Ben Shook, a pensioner whose body was found in his burned shack in Laings, Monroe County. His death, first believed to be accidental, was proved by Sulsberger to have been murder. Shook's slayer is now serving a life term in Ohio Penitentiary.

HANOI (AP)—Striking at the center of France's north Indochina defense bastion, rebel Vietminh last night blasted in five places the railway linking Hanoi with the coast and overpowered several forts guarding the vital supply route.

The 46-mile railway and road paralleling it are considered the lifeline of the Indochina fight. The bulk of the U. S.-supplied war equipment is moved over the route. Airlifts are the only other means of supplying the main French forces in the north.

A French army spokesman said the Communist-led rebels blew up stretches of the rail line with electrically detonated mines.

ed Stevens when, after an earlier row with McCarthy, the secretary said he would protect Army witnesses against any "abuse" by investigators.

The explosion that again shattered the peace between Stevens and McCarthy came when Senate sources yesterday made public an Army report saying efforts were made to get special treatment for G. David Schine, an unpaid consultant to McCarthy's subcommittee, after Schine was indicted last November as a private.

The report cited instances when McCarthy had allegedly exerted pressure on Army Department officials and his subcommittee's chief counsel, Roy Cohn, allegedly had used threats.

McCarthy's retort of "blackmail" was accompanied by memoranda he said came from the subcommittee files and depicted officials trying to sidetrack probes of Army matters.

And this brought criticism of McCarthy by Republicans on his own subcommittee. Sen. Dirksen of Illinois accused McCarthy of breaking an agreement among GOP members by releasing the memoranda in answer to the Army report.

DIRKSEN ALSO said the Republican members had agreed to meet yesterday to go over the Army report paragraph by paragraph and have Cohn present, under oath.

Dirksen said he was waiting for the meeting to begin when Sen. Potter (R-Mich.), another subcommittee member, called McCarthy and learned no meeting was to be held. The Wisconsin senator left for a speech in his home state.

McCarthy said later it was "an inexcusable oversight" on his part that he didn't let Dirksen know in advance of the release of the memoranda but he had "no choice" but to make them available.

Dirksen said, without elaborating, that Republican members have a responsibility with regard to the committee's staff and "I do mean to meet it."

"There will be no fooling about that—the matter has gone far enough," he said.

Nixon said he will "not dodge the issues" in tonight's speech, which will be carried at 10:30 p. m. over CBS television and radio stations which carried Stevenson's address a week ago.

But Nixon kept his own counsel as to the exact strategy he will use. There was no advance text of his speech. He left it open for any revision deemed necessary up to the moment of delivery.

One congressional leader, who asked not to be quoted by name, said Nixon probably will name McCarthy specifically in his talk. This leader said there was no doubt that Nixon would cite President Eisenhower's legislative program as the big issue before the nation and would dispute Stevenson's contention that the administration has embraced "mccarthysm" as a campaign issue.

The administration line that appeared to be emerging was that McCarthy's methods of investigating alleged Communists are only a passing and sometimes unfortunate phase in the overall job of running the government.

Judge Helpful In Sentencing

CINCINNATI (AP)—Judge John M. Renner asked the usual question in criminal court yesterday. Did the prisoner have anything to say before sentence was pronounced?

"Yes, judge," responded Moses Bates, 22, who pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary. "If you're thinking about sending to the reformatory, I'd rather be sent to the penitentiary."

He told the court he knew a lot of people at the reformatory "and I'm afraid I won't make it."

Renner sent him to the pen.

Farmer Draft Policies Draw New Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Ohio congressmen from agricultural districts report an increase in complaints from constituents about selective service reclassifying deferred farmers as eligible for the draft.

Such complaints have been received by Republicans Clarence Brown and William McCulloch and Democrat James Polk.

Actually, selective service says there has been no change in its policy on deferring farmers because of "essential" employment.

But a spokesman did point this out: Some farmers have been deferred as long as two years. The need for men is growing. The present group of 20-year-olds is unusually small, because it consists of "depression babies" born in an era when the birth rate was low. Thus, some of the older men have to be reclassified.

"Some deferred farmers don't realize," said a spokesman, "that we can call on them until they're 35. Of course they sometimes don't like it, because by then they may have families or have purchased expensive farm equipment."

"We had one man who wanted to be deferred who was going to school at Ohio State University in Columbus, but farming before and after classes. But he lived 80 miles away. We didn't think he could be deferred."

Married, Mogan now resides in Wichita Falls. Mrs. Mogan is the former Barbara Haswell of Circleville.

Unemployment On Increase, Reports Show

WASHINGTON (AP)—National unemployment, continuing its rise, reached 3,671,000 in February, by the latest government count.

It's anybody's guess whether the key March figure, slated to be published next month, will show the decline hoped for by President Eisenhower.

The President said some weeks ago that if the March jobless total fails to drop he will consider government action, including possible tax relief, to buoy the economy.

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that unemployment, as measured by a new sampling method, rose 584,000 in February.

Another sampling method, which Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said the Census Bureau is abandoning, showed February unemployment up 1,026,000 to a total 3,385,000.

There were substantial discrepancies between the two sets of figures. For instance, the new sample reported an 885,000 February increase in the civilian labor force while the old sample showed a 1,354,000 increase. The new sample indicated a 120,000 decline in non-farm employment but the old one registered an increase of 47,000.

Whatever the reason for the varying figures (and the Census Bureau said it couldn't give any right now) it appeared unemployment had climbed up about 2½ million in the four months since October, when 1,162,000 were reported as jobless.

Sermons On Truth To Continue At Church Of Christ

"The Ceasing of Miracles" is to be the sermon subject at the church of Christ, meeting at 139 E. Main St., for Sunday. This is a continuation of the series of studies on "Truth."

From this lesson evangelist Charles Cochran gives the following facts:

"Miracles were necessary when divine truth was being revealed to confirm the word and to establish the message as truth. However, the performance of miracles today is not necessary for anything God wants his children to do. They are not needed to prove that Christ is the Son of God. That fact was proved conclusively by His resurrection, and a proposition once proved is forever proved."

"We do not need miracles today to produce faith in Christ. We have the written 'signs' (John 20:30-31), and faith comes by hearing the word of God (Rom. 10:17)."

"We do not need miracles today to save the lost. They never were directly for that purpose. We are saved by obeying the truth (1 Pet. 1:22). The word of God is truth (John 17:17). We do not need miracles today in order for God to answer the prayers of His people. God works through natural law and spiritual law in answering prayer."

"We do not need miracles today to prove that the preacher is telling the truth and is approved by God. The truth is in the inspired book. We only need to go to the book and test their teaching by it (2 Tim. 3:16-17)."

"Paul said, 'Charity never faileth, but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away' (1 Cor. 13:8-10). Those things which were in part referred to the spiritual gifts named in 1 Cor. 12. That which is 'perfect' referred to perfected revelation, or the perfect law of liberty (Jas. 1:34; 2 Tim. 3:16-17; Jude 3)."

A Good Investment Topic Of Sermons In Trinity Church

The 8:30 and 10:45 a. m. worship services in Trinity church will be conducted by Intern Donald Kearns this week. As a Theme for his meditation, Mr. Kearns has selected, "A Good Investment Pays Dividends," based on Matt. 21:33-43. In telling the parable of the vineyard Jesus points out that just as a man who makes an investment expects to receive dividends, so God who has invested so much in man expects to receive the fruits of faith.

"The Master is here drawing on the comparison used in Isaiah 5 where the Prophet says 'The vineyard of the lord of hosts is the house of Israel,' Mr. Kearns said."

When the Jews rejected and crucified Christ the vineyard was taken from them and extended to all, he added, but God still expects that his investment will pay dividends. The Apostle Paul tells us that we were "created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." Have the Lord's vineyard been a poor investment?

At the early service the Junior Choir will render the Anthem "Jesus Jewel of my faith," by Bach. This is the number which they will present at the Choir Festival in Columbus Sunday evening. Music for the late service will be provided by Senior Choir.

Sunday School will be held at 9:30. During the Sunday School hour, the Rev. George Troutman will meet his adult instruction class in the church auditorium. Members of the congregation are also invited to attend not only to review the teachings of their church but to welcome the newcomers.

Sunday at 1:30 p. m. the Junior Choir will meet at the church for a brief rehearsal. At 2 p. m. the Junior and Senior Choirs will leave for Columbus where they will take part in the Chapel Choir Festival. The general public is invited to attend the evening concert at 7:30

The Rev. James B. Recob, will speak on the topic "The Mystery of the Cross". Clark Zwayer will assist him in conducting the service of worship.

The Church School study material to be used Sunday will be based upon the theme, "Jesus Faces the Cross". The biblical background for the study is found in the twelfth chapter of John's Gospel.

At 7:30 p. m. the second in a series of Sunday evening Lenten services will be conducted in Calvary Church. The pastor will speak from the second "word" of Christ from the Cross, "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise."

Can We By-Pass Christ? Minister Will Ask Sunday

"Can We By-Pass Jesus?" will be the sermon subject for the 10:30 morning worship service at the First Methodist Church Sunday. The Rev. Robert Weaver will emphasize that there is no escape from the truth of Jesus, that He was the truth and the life and there is no situation in life that is too removed from him.

Using the words of Jesus "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life," as a text the Rev. Mr. Weaver will emphasize that no man can turn his back on Jesus. Mankind became confused during the last week of Jesus' life and killed him, but Jesus was not confused even during the agony of the Cross. He looked unto God and said "Father forgive them, they know not what they do."

"What many people have described as 'the foolishness of God' proves to be wiser and more lasting than the cleverness of man," the minister said. "Mankind has been told of the systematically organized laws of God which control the universe yet man has done everything possible to disapprove those laws."

"Man and women are sick with a profound need for the realism and wholeness of Jesus. Nations of the world need to listen to those profound words of Jesus to be kept from destroying each other. Wars are the direct result of refusing to heed the words of eternal wisdom."

"There are two important words in the very beginning of The Lord's Prayer. 'Our Father' indicates two important truths that mankind must heed. First we are all together as one family with a common father. Second the idea of a father over all people indicates a brotherliness that is basic to all human relationships."

"Unless the human race turns to Jesus it will be like a rat in a trap. By its own perversity it has foredoomed itself to despair."

Special music has been arranged for the worship services by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, music director. The senior choir will sing the anthem "Hear My Crying" and Mrs. Lillian Avis and Mrs. Defenbaugh will sing a duet "Hear My Crying." Mrs. Betty Goodman has chosen "Religioso," "Consolation," and "Recessional" for the organ selections.

New Basement Furnished And Ready For Use

Sunday will mark the opening of the new church basement in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St.

The new basement provides a large assembly room and five classrooms for Sunday school, all finished with sand finish plaster and equipped with fluorescent lights. New chairs, tables and other furniture outfit the rooms.

Coal furnaces have been replaced with gas furnaces. Chimes have been installed and will be used for the first time Sunday.

St. Philip's Plans Guest Speakers

At the second in St. Philip's Lenten Series of Sunday evening services held at 7 p. m. weekly, the Rev. Gilbert L. Pennock, from the diocesan house in Cincinnati, will be the speaker. He will discuss the historical basis and development of the Holy Communion as celebrated according to The Book of Common Prayer.

At 8 p. m., the Couples Club will hold its regular meeting at which time a stewardship movie film will be shown. The picture is entitled, "All That I Have." A discussion period will follow, which will be moderated by Philip Hines. Hosts for the meeting are Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Hines, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCoard.

MRS. MARY MULCAHY, believed to be the oldest living war mother in the United States, is shown as she celebrated her 102nd birthday at her home in Philadelphia.

Worship Episodes To Be Featured By Presbyterians

The Presbyterian Church presents a series of Lenten services featuring worship experiences in Basic Christian Beliefs. In line with this, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will preach on the theme, "The Spirit That Stands By," third in this series.

Excerpts from the sermon: "It is the spirit of Him who neither slumbers nor sleeps, but who stands by to watch, 'while protected, we rest.' It is He who never forsakes us, never is 'gone for the day,'—never hangs out a sign reading, 'Do not disturb!' He stands by at every instant to give life, to heal, to provide bountifully for our every need, to inspire us to do good, to deliver us from evil, to save our souls from the sin that so easily besets us."

"Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end," He saith. 'Ask,' at any moment, night or day, Ask, and it shall be given you—for every one that asketh, receiveth.' This is the spirit of the Almighty God who stands by at all times, who forgiveth all our iniquities; who healeth all our diseases; who redeemeth our life from destruction; who crowneth us with loving kindness and tender mercies' (Psalm 104:4) What shall we render for all these benefits?"

The choir will sing, "Fear Not O Israel." Mrs. Clark Will directing. It will lead the congregation in singing the hymns, "All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name," "Spirit of God," and a Stewardship Hymn. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston has discovered a rare Seventeenth Century Pasquini composition which she will play on the organ, "Grand Partita in D Minor." Also, "Lullaby," and "Christ of All My Hopes."

The worship service will close with a dedication of thirty Presbyterian men who will conduct an every-member canvass of the church. During the afternoon, the families are asked to remain at home until the canvassers have called.

Also in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Catechism Instruction Class will meet in the Session Room of the church to continue preparation for church membership at Easter.

The congregation will participate in the order of service in the Reaffirmation of a Common Faith in Praise, the Gloria Patri; in Doctrine, the Apostle's Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and in singing hymns, "Sweet the Moments, Rich in Blessing, Which Before the Cross I Spend," and "Alas, And Did My Savior Bleed, and Did My sovereign Die?"

The Rev. Carl Wilson will lead the congregation in the Prayer of Confession, Humble Accession and Pardon for the Lost.

The Church Choir under the direction of Montford Kirkwood, Jr., will sing the anthem, "The Wondrous Story."

Speaking from scriptural directives in St. John 3:16-17; 1 Corinthians 13:4-8 and St. Luke 23:33-34, the Rev. Mr. Wilson will deliver the sermon, "The Cross... Redeeming Love."

Of this thought he says in part, "Christ's first and last words on the cross begin, as does the perfect prayer, with 'Father.' 'Father, forgive them'... 'Father, I in Thy hands I commit my spirit.' Jesus loved the word 'Father.' He told the unforgettable story of the loving father who forgave alike the prodigal and the self-righteous elder son."

"On the eve of Jesus' death He spoke of His Father's house of many mansions. To those who were anxious and worried He stated that His Father knew what they needed and would certainly care for them. He proclaimed that His Father was working, and is working at this very moment. In the garden He prayed, 'Father, if it be possible, take this cup from Me. Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done.'"

"Father was for Jesus a word packed with meaning. For us, too, here is a thought pattern that we can all understand and appreciate. God is like a father. In fact, He is the Father of us all. All humanity can claim Him as Creator but it is the particular right of those who have become His children in Christianity to call Him 'Father.' For a father and son relationship is not of creation alone but is a statement of an harmonious relationship in which the father's will is lovingly obeyed by His child."

"In the cross and the crucifixion of Jesus man sees the obedience of the Son and the redeeming love of the Father. The cross is the only hope of the world because the strength of one's faith is not in the faith itself but in the object upon which man lays hold. The cross and its redeeming love has no conditions attached, no technicalities that can make it invalid in certain cases. Whosoever believes on Him will not perish but have everlasting life. Thus the cross and its redeeming love is big enough for any man and his burden of sin, sorrow, fear and anxiety. It is big enough for you and me."

Church School classes will study the Bible lesson, "Jesus Faces the Cross." The School is departmentalized with classes for all ages meeting in class rooms for Bible study and Christian education instructions.

Bible Words To Live By

I JOHN 4:21—"And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also."

To me this is one of the most beautiful and significant verses in the Scriptures because it is indicative of the fact that love is always a creative experience. It is never an isolated emotion. It always has consequences. If we love God, then something must happen in our lives and in the lives of those we touch. Love turns our hearts inside out. It channels our feelings into concrete deeds. It tolerates the weakness of those who live with us. It breaks habits which have gained mastery over us. It changes a house into a home. It lifts a relationship into a companionship. It deepens an offering into a sacrifice and a responsibility into a mission. Something always comes of love.

The Rev. Arnold Hilmar Lowe, Westminster Presbyterian Church Minneapolis, Minn.

Theme for the service will be "Christ's Agony in Gethsemane," based on Hoffman's painting of Matthew 26:39.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m., the Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood will meet in the parish house. A special feature of the program for the week will be the query box conducted by Lewis Conkle. All men of the church are invited to attend.

Jesus Faces the Cross

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 11:55—12:50.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Six days before the Passover, Jesus went to his friends' home in Bethany, and Lazarus, whom He had raised from the dead, was there. They made Him a supper, and Martha served them.

Mary took a costly ointment and anointed Jesus' feet, wiping them with her hair. Judas objected, but Christ said: "Let her alone; against the day of My burying hath she kept this."

As Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, many took branches of palm trees and went to meet Him, crying, "Hosanna; blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord!"

Multitudes followed Jesus because they had heard of the raising of Lazarus. The Pharisees said: "Behold, the world is gone after Him." They planned to kill Him.

"Paul said, 'Charity never faileth, but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away' (1 Cor. 13:8-10). Those things which were in part referred to the spiritual gifts named in 1 Cor. 12. That which is 'perfect' referred to perfected revelation, or the perfect law of liberty (Jas. 1:34; 2 Tim. 3:16-17; Jude 3)."

A Good Investment Topic Of Sermons In Trinity Church

The 8:30 and 10:45 a. m. worship services in Trinity Church will be conducted by Intern Donald Kearns this week. As a Theme for his meditation, Mr. Kearns has selected, "A Good Investment Pays Dividends," based on Matt. 21:33-43. In telling the parable of the vineyard Jesus points out that just as a man who makes an investment expects to receive dividends, so God who has invested so much in man expects to receive the fruits of faith.

"The Master is here drawing on the comparison used in Isaiah 5 where the Prophet says 'The vineyard of the lord of hosts is the house of Israel.' Mr. Kearns said."

When the Jews rejected and crucified Christ the vineyard was taken from them and extended to all, he added, but God still expects that his investment will pay dividends. The Apostle Paul tells us that we were "created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." Has the Lord's vineyard been a poor investment?

At the early service the Junior Choir will render the Anthem "Jesus Jewel of my faith," by Bach. This is the number which they will present at the Choir Festival in Columbus Sunday evening. Music for the late service will be provided by Senior Choir.

Sunday School will be held at 9:30. During the Sunday School hour, the Rev. George Troutman will meet his adult instruction class in the church auditorium. Members of the congregation are also invited to attend not only to review the teachings of their church but to welcome the newcomers.

Sunday at 1:30 p. m. the Junior Choir will meet at the church for a brief rehearsal. At 2 p. m. the Junior and Senior Choirs will leave for Columbus where they will take part in the Chapel Choir Festival. The general public is invited to attend the evening concert at 7:30 Services of worship begin at 9 a. m. Sunday at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church. Sunday School class sessions for children begin at the same hour in the children's department.

The Rev. James B. Recob, will speak on the topic "The Mystery of the Cross." Clark Zwyer will assist him in conducting the service of worship.

The Christian Carriers Choir will offer the anthem, "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone." The choir will be accompanied by Miss Minnie Wilkerson, who is also the church pianist.

The Church School study material to be used Sunday will be based upon the theme, "Jesus Faces the Cross." The biblical background for the study is found in the twelfth chapter of John's Gospel.

At 7:30 p. m. the second in a series of Sunday evening Lenten services will be conducted in Calvary Lutheran Church. The pastor will speak from the second "word" of Christ from the Cross, "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise."

Can We By-Pass Christ? Minister Will Ask Sunday

"Can We By-Pass Jesus?" will be the sermon subject for the 10:30 morning worship service at the First Methodist Church Sunday. The Rev. Robert Weaver will emphasize that there is no escape from the truth of Jesus, that He was the truth and the life and there is no situation in life that is too removed from him.

Using the words of Jesus "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life," as a text the Rev. Mr. Weaver will emphasize that no man can turn his back on Jesus. Mankind became confused during the last week of Jesus' life and killed him, but Jesus was not confused even during the agony of the Cross. He looked unto God and said "Father forgive them, they know not what they do."

"What many people have described as 'the foolishness of God' proves to be wiser and more lasting than the cleverness of man," the minister said. "Mankind has been told of the systematically organized laws of God which control the universe yet man has done everything possible to disapprove those laws."

"Man and women are sick with a profound need for the realism and wholeness of Jesus. Nations of the world need to listen to those profound words of Jesus to be kept from destroying each other. Wars are the direct result of refusing to heed the words of eternal wisdom. "There are two important words in the very beginning of The Lord's Prayer. 'Our Father' indicates two important truths that mankind must heed. First we are all together as one family with a common father. Second the idea of a father over all people indicates a brotherliness that is basic to all human relationships."

"Unless the human race turns to Jesus it will be like a rat in a trap. By its own perversity it has foredoomed itself to despair."

Special music has been arranged for the worship services by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, music director. The senior choir will sing the anthem "Hear My Crying" and Mrs. Lillian Avis and Mrs. Defenbaugh will sing a duet "Hear My Crying." Mrs. Betty Goodman has chosen "Religioso," "Consolation," and "Recessional" for the organ selections.

New Basement Furnished And Ready For Use

Sunday will mark the opening of the new church basement in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St.

The new basement provides a large assembly room and five classrooms for Sunday school, all finished with sand finish plaster and equipped with fluorescent lights. New chairs, tables and other furniture outfit the rooms.

Coal furnaces have been replaced with gas furnaces. Chimes have been installed and will be used for the first time Sunday.

St. Philip's Plans Guest Speakers

Episcopalians at St. Philip's will have the opportunity of hearing two guest clergymen Sunday.

At the 10:30 a. m. service, the Rev. Charles E. White, rector of St. Mary's Church, Hillsboro, will conduct the service of Morning Prayer and preach the sermon.

At the second in St. Philip's Lenten Series of Sunday evening services held at 7 p. m. weekly, the Rev. Gilbert L. Pennock, from the diocesan house in Cincinnati, will be the speaker. He will discuss the historical basis and development of The Holy Communion as celebrated according to The Book of Common Prayer.

ries of Sunday evening Lenten services will be conducted in Calvary Lutheran Church. The pastor will speak from the second "word" of Christ from the Cross, "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise."

MRS. MARY MULCAHY, believed to be the oldest living war mother in the United States, is shown as she celebrated her 102nd birthday at her home in Philadelphia.

Worship Episodes To Be Featured By Presbyterians

The Presbyterian Church presents a series of Lenten services featuring worship experiences in Basic Christian Beliefs. In line with this, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will preach on the theme, "The Spirit That Stands By," third in this series.

Excerpts from the sermon: "It is the spirit of Him who neither slumbers nor sleeps, but who stands by to watch, while we rest. It is He who never forsakes us, never is 'gone for the day,'—never hangs out a sign reading, 'Do not disturb!' He stands by at every instant to give life, to heal, to provide bountifully for our every need, to inspire us to do good, to deliver us from evil, to save our souls from the sin that so easily besets us."

"Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end," He saith. 'Ask' at any moment, night or day. Ask, and it shall be given you—for every one that asketh, receiveth. This is the spirit of the Almighty God who stands by at all times, who forgiveth all our iniquities; who healeth all our diseases; who redeemeth our life from destruction; who crowneth us with loving kindness and tender mercies' (Psalm 104) What shall we render for all these benefits?"

The Choir will sing, "Fear Not O Israel," Mrs. Clark Will directing. It will lead the Congregation in singing the hymns, "All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name," "Spirit of God," and a Stewardship Hymn. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston has discovered a rare Seventeenth Century Pasquini composition which she will play on the organ, "Grande Partita in D Minor." Also, "Lullaby," and "Christ of All My Hopes."

The worship service will close with a dedication of thirty Presbyterian men who will conduct an every-member canvass of the members and friends of the Church. During the afternoon, the families are asked to remain at home until the canvassers have called.

Also in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Catechism Instruction Class will meet in the Session Room of the Church to continue preparation for church membership at Easter.

'Cross' Is Theme Sunday Morning At EUB Church

In keeping with the Lenten emphasis on "The Cross," worshippers in First Evangelical United Brethren Church will meditate upon the theme, "The Cross... Redeeming Love," Sunday at 9:30 a. m.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood, organist, will introduce the worship with the prelude, "Lento Expressivo," followed by the Church Choir processional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord, God Almighty."

The congregation will participate in the order of service in the Reaffirmation of a Common Faith in Praise, the Gloria Patri; in Doctrine, the Apostle's Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and in singing hymns, "Sweet the Moments, Rich in Blessing, Which Before the Cross I Spend," and "Alas, And Did My Savior Bleed, and Did My sovereign Die?"

The Rev. Carl Wilson will lead the congregation in the Prayer of Confession, Humble Accession and Pardon for the Lost.

The Church Choir under the direction of Montford Kirkwood, Jr., will sing the anthem, "The Wondrous Story."

Speaking from scriptural directives in St. John 3:16-17; I Corinthians 13:4-8 and St. Luke 23:34, the Rev. Mr. Wilson will deliver the sermon, "The Cross... Redeeming Love."

Of this thought he says in part, "Christ's first and last words on the cross begin, as does the perfect prayer, with 'Father.' 'Father, forgive them'... 'Father, I in Thy hands I commit my spirit.' Jesus loved the word 'Father.' He told the unforgettable story of the loving father who forgave alike the prodigal and the self-righteous elder son."

"On the eve of Jesus' death He spoke of His Father's house of many mansions. To those who were anxious and worried He stated that His Father knew what they needed and would certainly care for them. He proclaimed that His Father was working, and is working at this very moment. In the garden He prayed, 'Father, if it be possible, take this cup from Me. Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done.'"

"Father was for Jesus a word packed with meaning. For us, too, here is a thought pattern that we can all understand and appreciate. God is like a father. In fact, He is the Father of us all. All humanity can claim Him as Creator but it is the particular right of those who have become His children in Christianity to call Him 'Father.' For father and son relationship is not of creation alone but is a statement of an harmonious relationship in which the father's will is lovingly obeyed by His child."

"In the cross and the crucifixion of Jesus man sees the obedience of the Son and the redeeming love of the Father. The cross is the only hope of the world because the strength of one's faith is not in the faith itself but in the object upon which man lays hold. The cross and its redeeming love has no conditions attached, no technicalities that can make it invalid in certain cases. Whosoever believes on Him will not perish but have everlasting life. Thus the cross and its redeeming love is big enough for any man and his burden of sin, sorrow, fear and anxiety. It is big enough for you and me."

Church School classes will study the Bible lesson, "Jesus Faces the Cross." The School is departmentalized with classes for all ages meeting in class rooms for Bible study and Christian education instructions.

Bible Words To Live By

I JOHN 4:21—"And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also."

To me this is one of the most beautiful and significant verses in the Scriptures because it is indicative of the fact that love is always a creative experience. It is never an isolated emotion. It always has consequences. If we love God, then something must happen in our lives and in the lives of those we touch. Love turns our hearts inside out. It channels our feelings into concrete deeds. It tolerates the weakness of those who live with us. It breaks habits which have gained mastery over us. It changes a house into a home. It lifts a relationship into a companionship. It deepens an offering into a sacrifice and a responsibility into a mission. Something always comes of love.

The Rev. Arnold Hilmar Lowe, Westminister Presbyterian Church Minneapolis, Minn.

Theme for the service will be "Christ's Agony in Gethsemane," based on Hoffman's painting of Matthew 26:39.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m., the Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood will meet in the parish house. A special feature of the program for the week will be the query box conducted by Lewis Conkle. All men of the church are invited to attend.

Jesus Faces the Cross

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 11:55—12:50.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Six days before the Passover, Jesus went to his friends' home in Bethany, and Lazarus, whom He had raised from the dead, was there. They made Him a supper, and Martha served them.

Mary took a costly ointment and anointed Jesus' feet, wiping them with her hair. Judas objected, but Christ said: "Let her alone; against the day of My burying hath she kept this."

As Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, many took branches of palm trees and went to meet Him, crying, "Hosanna; blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord!"

Multitudes followed Jesus because they had heard of the raising of Lazarus. The Pharisees said: "Behold, the world is gone after Him." They planned to kill Him. MEMORY VERSE—John 12:25.

PROGRESS IN RESEARCH

PRESIDENT OF THE National Association of Wheat Growers believes the U. S. wheat surplus problem could be solved by limiting annual production to one billion bushels. He contends 750 million bushels could be absorbed in domestic use and the remainder disposed of abroad.

Jens Terjeson of Pendleton, Ore. — the man quoted — accepts continuation of strict acreage controls and presumably other restrictions as the price of bringing stability to the wheat growing industry. He makes no recommendation as to the disposition of acres taken out of wheat.

While his approach to the production phase appears to be more restrictive than current legislation, the wheat growers organization is convinced that the ultimate solution of the surplus problem lies in increased consumption at home and expanded markets abroad.

The organization is working constantly with the baking and milling industries, seeking greater use of the cereal for food as well as increased utilization of low grade or damaged wheat as livestock feed and in industrial uses. Last year the association sponsored in conjunction with the milling industry a continuing wheat utilization research program.

Wheat controls, at best, are a necessary evil to be endured while new markets and uses are explored.

HAVE NO FEAR

THE MILLIONS who have suffered from "zap" are now being informed that their worries are ended. "Zap," of course, is what happens to the human mind when a zipper jams.

It is revealed on the authority of the original and leading manufacturer of zippers that the "zap" has been removed by the invention of a new jam-free zipper. Word of this discovery made significant news in the apparel industry last week.

The new snag-proof device took 12 years to develop and perfect. Apparently it is a little tab which, upon being pushed down ever so gently, springs the jaws of the zipper slider and allows the snagged material to be pulled free. It is estimated by the $100 million-a-year zipper industry that there is a potential market for 400 million of the new zippers in the ready-to-wear field alone. And the prediction is that in a few years the American public will have nothing to do with other than catch-free zippers.

And there in capsule is the epitome of the dynamic power of American industry. A people that can progress to better and better zippers need have no fear of the unfolding future.

These Days

The problem that John Foster Dulles faces at Caracas, Venezuela, is that the Soviet Universal State has successfully penetrated an area in Latin America; has established a base for operations in Guatemala; has disaffected both Honduras and Costa Rica; is moving rapidly into Cuba and Mexico. British Honduras is at this moment in particular danger of becoming part of the Guatemalan Communist base.

This moves the danger from the realm of theory into that of reality. The Panama Canal is imperilled, as anybody can see who reads a map. But equally important, the United States can be isolated from its Latin American neighbors and can be diverted from its world policies to a defensive program on the American continents. While our statesmen excite themselves over small politics at home, we are being invaded, in the sense that areas that have been important to this country's national existence since Thomas Jefferson was President are being absorbed by our national enemy.

This is the problem and it will not be solved by the current trend toward happy talk which means nothing when historic events rush at terrific speed against us. The realities are grim because involved is our national existence.

While some of our so-called statesmen continue to view without alarm, in their relaxing material comforts, the penetration into our own government, they cannot ignore the base established in Guatemala by the Kremlin, or the pressures upon other countries, particularly Costa Rica, Cuba and Mexico. Dulles is facing up to the situation realistically and fearlessly but he may be late.

The "Good Neighbor Policy" of the Roosevelt Administration, devised by Stanley High and carried forward by Nelson Rockefeller, proved to be a failure, not so much because the program was wrong but because of the "Europe First Policy," which diverted attention from both China and Latin America. Russia took advantage of the diversion to conquer China and to penetrate Latin America. When one reviews all the facts, it stands clear that even when the United States was an ally of Soviet Russia, the latter was making salient moves against this country.

The harm done in Latin America can be undone but not by a casual policy or by failure to act effectively. One of the first necessities is a full understanding with the Argentine, with the very Peron whom our Left Wing geniuses painted as a bad dictator while they were supporting Stalin as a good dictator. Peron can add to our strength; without him our difficulties will be multiplied many times.

President Eisenhower apparently recognized the peril early and sent his brother, Milton, to Latin America where he made an excellent impression and gained important information as to what ought to be done. What influence Milton Eisenhower's report had upon State Department thinking, I do not know, but it would seem, from events, to have been significant. By sending Milton Eisenhower to Latin America and the Vice President, Richard Nixon, to Asia, the President got an objective view of our two most perilous situations. In doing it that way, the President was wiser than most of us thought at the time.

DIET AND HEALTH

A Fuller, Longer Life Seen For Coronary Attack Victims

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FULL retirement and only a short life expectancy was once thought to be the only future possible for a victim of a coronary attack.

This type of heart disease occurs when a clot forms in the arteries supplying blood to the heart.

Better Expectancy

However, the patient's life expectancy is not nearly so limited as has been generally believed. And all activities need not be completely restricted.

Of course, the physician's instructions must be obeyed in all of these cases, for every case is a little different.

Study of Disabled

Recently, a study was made of a group of men who were granted disability because of this type of heart disease.

It was found that 70 per cent lived five years or more, 51 per cent lived 10 years or more, and 34 per cent were still living 15 years after their original heart disability.

Those who suffer from heart disease because of rheumatic fever or other such diseases do not fare as well as those who have had coronary attacks. Appreciable numbers of men recovered sufficiently from their disabling heart disease to resume normal employment.

The rates of recovery from disability were greater for younger than for older men.

Without minimizing the adverse effects and the bad aspects of heart disease, it is encouraging to see that even severe heart disease is compatible with prolonged survival and that there is even the possibility of resuming work again.

Follow Advice

Of course, any person suffering a heart attack should follow his physician's instructions explicitly as to his physical care, and he should also follow his advice about work and other activities.

The patient suffering from coronary heart disease has greater recovery and survival chances than those with most other types of heart trouble. But it requires careful regulation of all activities as the physician instructs.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
D. E.: Is it true that cancer of the male organs can be induced by taking male hormones?

Answer: No, this is not true. However, if a cancer is present, it can intensify and increase the cancer's action.

Sixteen high school basketball teams have been crowned district champions in the A and B Ohio tournaments, Ashville being one of the 120 teams eliminated last week.

Pickaway is one of 41 counties in Central Ohio which will be patrolled by military police personnel.

The Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Seifert

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

MR. CORNFELD made a great business of opening a small black notebook on the table where Dr. Bowser could read it, and the secretary as well. "Here's Sunday night: 11:00 p.m.—a call to a Mrs. Spraggins. Now, the doctor hasn't done more than jot notes, but you men can fill in, probably. He's written here, '70 yrs. old, congestive hf—pain. 3 days. ox. dig.'"

Mr. Cornfeld spun around to face the doctors. "You know what all that means? Well, I don't! So maybe Dr. Talbot..."

Craig looked stubborn, and Shelly drew in her breath. Oh, he must answer!

"It means," said Craig tightly, "that the patient was seventy years old; she was suffering great pain from congestive heart failure; her husband had thought it would pass—and called me only when she turned blue, a delay of three days. I took her to the hospital and saw that oxygen and digitalis were administered."

"How long did you stay with her, doctor?" asked Cornfeld, gently.

"It's on the hospital record!" "Sunday night..." spoke up Dr. Ward thoughtfully. "Didn't you care for an injury that night, too? That Hamilton girl with the broken leg? You happened to be in the hospital when she was brought in, and..."

Craig nodded. "I remember it," said Ward. "She was hurt in a car accident. Talbot saved my being disturbed. I appreciated it. And remember it."

Mr. Cornfeld smiled. "Did his heart case live?" asked Lewis.

"No," said Craig. "She died about thirty-six hours after I took her to the hospital."

"Yes," Shelly spoke up. "That call's down at the daybook. He was called away from office hours. I remember that. On Tuesday morning, we'd just got started."

Nobody said anything. "Well, anyway," said Cornfeld, going back to his book. "It seems that Talbot was up all of Sunday night. Now we come to Monday: 8:00 p.m., call to a family named Lehnhoff. Out in the country. His notes say the man was suffering from something that looks like Yiddish."

"Oh, now, look!" cried Craig. "That's what is written down."

"Yes. Man's a d.p.—out on a farm. He's a tenant farmer, or his son is. The old man spoke only Yiddish. It gave me a hot time figuring out what made him so awful sick."

"But you did figure?" "It's down in your book. After the Yiddish note."

Mr. Cornfeld leaned over. "Oh, yes. It says diabetic coma. You help him?"

"I did."

"How long did it take you?" "A little time. I had to leave because one of the plant workers got himself shot up. Ward should remember that one, too."

"I do," said Dr. Ward. "Not only did the boy have a .38 slug in his..."

lung—which was quite a job, of course, transfusion, saline—but his girl friend went into a fine state of hysteria."

"That keep you up all night, doctor?" asked Bowser, who was getting the drift of things.

"I got home about three," said Ward. "Boy was lucky. An inch or two either way, the bullet would have severed the aorta or portal vein, or the hepatic artery—as it was, he made a quick recovery."

"What about you that night, Talbot?"

"Well, I'm plant doctor, and I can always count on a call from some old-time worker with chronic fibrosis."

"You got one that night?"

"If I did, it would be on the book."

It was on the book. Cornfeld moved on to Tuesday. "Seems the doc got called away before he was through at the office that evening."

"But he had stayed late," Shelly spoke up again.

"Does he often?" Cornfeld asked her.

"Almost always. He tries to get the records all straight before he leaves. That's what he was doing when he was called by the police..."

"And I know first-hand about that case," said Cornfeld. "Our city doctor was not around." Briefly his eyes flashed toward the city doctor, who lifted his chin and said something about his being busy, too! "The police had two badly cut-up men—they called Talbot. Just today I asked the officer why, and he said it was because you could nearly always get him. But that's not important—the thing is that Tuesday evening Talbot went over to the jail about six and cared for the two men who'd been fighting. D'you take 'em to the hospital, Doc?"

"No," said Craig. "You know I didn't."

"It would be a big help," snapped Cornfeld, "if you'd testify somewhat in your own behalf."

"I'm like Bowser," drawled Craig. "Neutral. I can tell you what I did for those men, if you like."

"We would like it, doctor," said Bowser.

"All right. They were drunk—you didn't need any kind of meter to know that. They stunk! Been fighting. One had a bad, bleeding gash on the back of his skull, the other had a temple wound. It takes a little time to clean up that sort of mess. But I was home by eight, I think."

"Go to bed?" "I did. About ten."

"And when did you get the call out to the Armes place?"

"You know that, too. It was about eleven."

Cornfeld waited for him to say more. He did not.

"You'd had a drink or two, doctor?"

"I don't think so. I sometimes take a drink in the evening. Not more than one when I'm alone. But look here, now—" He stood up, seeming unusually big there in the crowded, low-ceilinged room.

His dark face was stern. "All this talk of cases and their treatment," he said brusquely, "all this testimony that I had had but a few hours' sleep in three nights—it leads up to just one thing. I dozed at the wheel of my car, and I crashed into a tree. And—I didn't reach my patient. In my book, falling asleep doesn't seem any better than being drunk."

"Doctor—" It was Arthur Brewett who spoke now. "Would you have let this meeting say you were drunk that night, and act upon that premise?"

Craig gave this a little thought. "I might not have," he said tentatively. "But the important consideration is that I did not reach my patient."

"And your friends," said Dr. Bowser dryly, "have come forward to tell us why you did not. Mrs. Carr showed the evidence in your appointment book, I suppose..."

"Yes," confirmed the minister. "She came to me for advice, and we took the matter to the magistrate."

"I think Talbot has a point," said Dr. Sowder, the heart specialist, "in saying that a doctor who lets himself get too tired is not much more reliable than a drunken one. A man should get his rest."

Craig looked at him thoughtfully. "If people get sick at night, Sowder, or hurt, and they call me..."

"Do you have to take them all?"

"No. I take the ones who come to me, however."

"Regardless?"

"Regardless of what? Myself, or the patient?"

"Well, can't you judge the seriousness..."

"Sometimes, yes. But most people calling a doctor think they're in a bad way. You know that. And a lot of you other chaps won't answer night calls. So—"

"Oh, now look, Talbot..."

Dr. Bowser rapped for order. "Let's take one thing at a time, gentlemen. Do I or don't I hear any sort of motion concerning Dr. Talbot's professional behavior on the Tuesday night in question?"

There was a silence as deep as a well. "Thank you, gentlemen," said Craig softly.

"I hope," said Cornfeld, "your account of this meeting in tomorrow's paper will give good publicity to the evidence presented here tonight."

The secretary glanced at the chairman for instructions. Dr. Bowser smiled apologetically. "We put nothing in the paper concerning action taken at the Medical Society meetings, sir," he said regretfully. "We confine our publicity to a resume of the program."

"Well, in this case, you've got an obligation!" declared Cornfeld. "Gossip'll go on sayin' he was drunk."

"We'll try to counteract that by word of mouth."

Cornfeld didn't seem to take a hopeful view of that promise, and sat grumpily silent while Bowser took up his second matter of business.

Child Study League Hears Discussion Of Kindergarten

Mrs. Whitesed Hosts Meeting

Williamsport Child Study club met in the home of Mrs. Paul Whitesed with Miss Gladys Parrett and Mrs. Elinor Tootle of Chillicothe as guest speakers, with a discussion of Kindergartens.

Miss Parrett, elementary supervisor of Chillicothe schools, talked on organization of kindergarten classes. She stated that while two things, a class room and funds to maintain the class, must be available, the results are well worth the effort to attain these necessities. Children with kindergarten experiences make more rapid progress, excel in handwriting, share experiences with others and have fewer failures after they enter grade school.

Mrs. Tootle, kindergarten teacher in the Chillicothe schools, related activities in a typical day of class. She also suggested toys which would be helpful in classroom work. She stated that toys of good quality are more useful and last longer. Following their addresses, the two teachers led in a discussion period.

Mrs. Don McDill, president, conducted a business meeting. She read a letter from Margaret Martin, Ohio Child Conservation League president. She also announced that a Spring conference will be held May 1 at Kirtersville. Reservations are to be in by April 24.

Mrs. McDill appointed a nominating committee to include Mrs. Glenn McCoy, chairman, Mrs. Robert Barnes, Mrs. William Heiskell Jr. and Mrs. Whitesed.

Guests for the evening included Miss Parrett and Mrs. Tootle of Chillicothe, Mrs. William Keller of Circleville, Mrs. John Tennant, Mrs. Norman Godden, Mrs. John Hamman, Mrs. Melvin Long, Mrs. Karl Morrison, Mrs. William Johnson and Mrs. Tommy Johnson, all of Williamsport.

Refreshments were served at the close of program by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jack Brookhart, Mrs. Harold Mace and Mrs. McCoy.

Washington Firemen Battle Blazes With New Stop-'Em-Quick Technique

SMOKE-EATERS TRY SMALLER, PRE-CONNECTED HOSE

No, this isn't a reproduction of that famous sculpture of the legendary Laocoon and his sons battling the serpents. It's confusion personified as firemen try to disentangle unwieldy hose.

By A. VERNON DAVIS

Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—An idea for a new way of fighting fires, developed by a fireman in the nation's capital, has meant a cut in losses in that city and may quickly catch on in other big communities across the country.

The new plan enables firemen to "knock down" a fire in its early stages—during the period when conventional fire fighters would still be coupling hose lines to street hydrants.

Using a team of two fire trucks, the District of Columbia system works like this: The first truck, using 1½-inch hose instead of the conventional 2½-inch lines, pulls up in front of the building where the fire is just getting started.

THE SMALLER HOSE line, pre-connected to a 150-gallon water tank on the truck, is quickly dragged inside the burning building. Equipped with "fog" nozzle, the hose line is put into action at the base of the fire. Water in the 150-gallon tank will last three minutes. These three minutes are perhaps the most crucial during the fire fighting operation.

The three minutes, saved by the Washington plan, could mean the saving of many buildings. During these first three minutes the second fire truck in the two-truck team goes into action.

Using the conventional 2½-inch hose, the second truck hooks up to a street hydrant to take water from the nearest water main. Another 2½-inch line is run from the second truck to the 150-gallon tank on the first truck, which is already in operation on the fire.

Thus, at about the time the tank on the first truck has been emptied, the second truck is ready to start pumping water to replenish the supply tank.

PRESSURE from the pumping of the second fire engine provides a boost for the pump on the first engine, providing an even greater stream of water on the fire and permitting use of more 1½-inch lines. Figures show that 90 per cent of the fires in the District of Columbia can be put out in this manner.

Firemen say use of the smaller hose lines in the early stages of a fire offers still another advantage. Not only can the preconnected hoses be placed into service faster, but they provide freer mobility for the firemen. Fire fighters can get through small passageways better. Insurance companies and property owners should like to hear about still another advantage to the new method: Use of fog nozzles on 1½-inch hose lines will keep water damage to a minimum. There just won't be as much water spread through your building.

SMALL COMMUNITIES have used booster tanks on fire trucks, but this is one of the first "big city" adaptations of the plan.

Improved equipment was used by Washington firemen to equip the first dozen or so fire trucks for the new fire fighting method. But already it has paid off and District of Columbia fire department officials hope to make a big dent in the district's fire losses.

Captain Francis O'Donnell, head of a Washington engine company, is credited with the idea. Chief Alfred Grunwell, a battalion leader, worked with O'Donnell in perfecting the technique.

Washington firemen say they don't want to give the impression that they are throwing away all their 2½-inch conventional size hoses. They certainly are not! The big hoses are being carried as before to take care of the big fires which cannot be stopped by the new method.

Past Presidents Club Of D.U.V. Conducts Meeting

Past Presidents club of Daughters of Union Veterans met Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Irene B. Newton of N. Court St.

Following a drawing contest, Mrs. E. L. Tolbert talked on Badenton Tractor Park, Florida's city on wheels. Mrs. Carpenter conducted a hymn contest and Mrs. Coffland led in a quiz. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Tolbert, Mrs. Frank Webbe and Mrs. Carpenter. Mrs. Trimmer closed the program with a humorous poem entitled "Frustrated".

Using a team of two fire trucks, the District of Columbia system works like this:

The first truck, using 1½-inch hose instead of the conventional 2½-inch lines, pulls up in front of the building where the fire is just getting started.

THE SMALLER HOSE line, pre-connected to a 150-gallon water tank on the truck, is quickly dragged inside the burning building. Equipped with "fog" nozzle, the hose line is put into action at the base of the fire. Water in the 150-gallon tank will last three minutes. These three minutes are perhaps the most crucial during the fire fighting operation.

The three minutes, saved by the Washington plan, could mean the saving of many buildings. During these first three minutes the second fire truck in the two-truck team goes into action.

Using the conventional 2½-inch hose, the second truck hooks up to a street hydrant to take water from the nearest water main. Another 2½-inch line is run from the second truck to the 150-gallon tank on the first truck, which is already in operation on the fire.

Thus, at about the time the tank on the first truck has been emptied, the second truck is ready to start pumping water to replenish the supply tank.

PRESSURE from the pumping of the second fire engine provides a boost for the pump on the first engine, providing an even greater stream of water on the fire and permitting use of more 1½-inch lines. Figures show that 90 per cent of the fires in the District of Columbia can be put out in this manner.

Firemen say use of the smaller hose lines in the early stages of a fire offers still another advantage. Not only can the preconnected hoses be placed into service faster, but they provide freer mobility for the firemen. Fire fighters can get through small passageways better.

Insurance companies and property owners should like to hear about still another advantage to the new method: Use of fog nozzles on 1½-inch hose lines will keep water damage to a minimum. There just won't be as much water spread through your building.

SMALL COMMUNITIES have used booster tanks on fire trucks, but this is one of the first "big city" adaptations of the plan.

Improved equipment was used by Washington firemen to equip the first dozen or so fire trucks for the new fire fighting method. But already it has paid off and District of Columbia fire department officials hope to make a big dent in the district's fire losses.

Captain Francis O'Donnell, head of a Washington engine company, is credited with the idea. Chief Alfred Grunwell, a battalion leader, worked with O'Donnell in perfecting the technique.

Washington firemen say they don't want to give the impression that they are throwing away all their 2½-inch conventional size hoses. They certainly are not! The big hoses are being carried as before to take care of the big fires which cannot be stopped by the new method.

Past Presidents Club Of D.U.V. Conducts Meeting

Past Presidents club of Daughters of Union Veterans met Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Irene B. Newton of N. Court St.

Mrs. E. S. Neuding, chaplain, conducted devotionals. Mrs. Cora Coffland opened the business session with group recitation of the pledge of allegiance. The session closed with "The Lord's Prayer" in unison.

Mrs. James Trimmer conducted program, assisted by Mrs. James Carpenter and Mrs. Coffland. Mrs. Trimmer gave a review of an article on "Chlorella, Key to World Plenty." She stated that, according to the article written by Joseph C. Kelly, this one-cell plant may prove to be of more importance than the discovery of the atom bomb.

Following a drawing contest, Mrs. E. L. Tolbert talked on Badenton Trailer Park, Florida's city on wheels. Mrs. Carpenter conducted a hymn contest and Mrs. Coffland led in a quiz. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Tolbert, Mrs. Frank Webbe and Mrs. Carpenter. Mrs. Trimmer closed the program with a humorous poem entitled "Frustrated."

Refreshments were served in the dining room from a linen covered table with a pink and white color scheme. The centerpiece, an arrangement of pink Spring flowers, was flanked by crystal candelabra with pink candles tied with green ribbons. Mrs. Coffland served as assisting hostess.

Next meeting is to be held in the home of Mrs. Carpenter of E. Mound St.

Personals

Child Advancement club members will entertain their husbands at 6 p. m. Sunday in Wardells Party Home.

Ladies Auxiliary of the Lions club will meet at 7:45 p. m. Monday in the club rooms in the Masonic Temple.

If muffins have to wait a bit before they are served, use a small spatula or knife and tip each in its cup so they won't steam. Then put them in a warm place until you are ready to bring them to the table.

Pan-fried apple rings or quarters are delicious as an accompaniment to pork chops, pork sausage or ham. Choose apples that will keep their shape after they are cooked.

FUR FASHIONS and ensembles played big roles in recent spring fashion shows in Paris. At the left is a Revillon creation, a pastel ranch mink coat with yoke collar and large sleeves. The coat is lined completely with grey and black grosgrain ribbon which matches the grey sheath worn with it. For afternoon wear designer Pierre Balmain introduced the two-piece ensemble (right) of white silk with a print of tiny, black leaves. The reed-slim dress with high, black corselet belt is worn with a loose jacket in the bell silhouette. (International)

Ashville Garden Club Is Hostess To County Members

Ashville Garden club held an open meeting in Ashville English Lutheran church with twenty guests present from Garden clubs of the county.

During a brief business meeting, the club voted to donate to the Red Cross drive.

Mrs. Glen Klopfenstein, program chairman, introduced Chester S. Hutchinson as guest speaker.

Mr. Hutchinson, who spent his youth on a Walnut Township farm, was a member of the first 4-H Pig club in Pickaway County. He taught school for a number of years and several years ago became Dean of the College of Agriculture of Ohio State University.

Mr. Hutchinson, a member of edge.

Worthington Garden Club, is counselor of Ohio Association of Garden clubs. By the use of picture slides, he showed the effect of different soils, fertilizers, and insect control on both flowers and vegetables. He also gave an explanation of the processes of several experiments which are being conducted in this field.

Mrs. David Dill closed the meeting by singing two songs. She was accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Peters.

When a recipe directs that milk should be "scalded," heat the milk until tiny bubbles appear around its edge.

Symbol of Integrity—

Carved For Eternity by Master Craftsmen!

A memorial is more than a stone skillfully sculptured by the stonecutter's art. It is a memory... preserved in stone for the ages. And more and more, in years to come, families will seek to perpetuate, through symbols, some of the character and integrity of departed loved ones. We are thoroughly versed in the language of symbolism and can assist you in expressing this perpetuated tribute. This service is yours, regardless of the size or type of memorial you select. But that's not all — our memorials are a lot less expensive than you think.

Notre Dame Shows Strong In NCAA Test

NEW YORK (P)—With the defending champion on the outside looking in, Notre Dame loomed today as the team to beat in the NCAA post-season basketball tournament.

But the Irish, who stunned Indiana, the 1953 winner, last night by the margin of a single point—65-64—must go up against Penn State, another upset-minded outfit tonight in Iowa City.

Other quarter-final round games tonight pit Navy against La Salle in Philadelphia, Bradley against Oklahoma A&M in Stillwater, Ok., and Southern California against Santa Clara in Corvallis, Ore. The winners will move on to the semifinals and finals next weekend in Kansas City.

It was ironic that Branch McCracken's Indiana team, the Big 10 champion, should make its exit by one point, for last year the Hoosiers won the title by the same margin over Kansas. It was a real shocker for McCracken who considered his 1954 quintet one of his best.

Penn State, for its part, upended Louisiana State 78-70, in the other half of the Iowa City doubleheader so Notre Dame will have its hands full.

The other round of 16 games did not provide any startling form reversals. La Salle whipped North Carolina State 88-81 and Navy edged Cornell 69-67 in Philadelphia; Oklahoma A&M slugged Rice 51-45 and Bradley turned back Colorado 76-64 in Stillwater, and in Corvallis, Southern California dumped Idaho State 73-59 and Santa Clara halted Colorado A&M 73-50.

Valdes Collects Win Over Parker

NEW YORK (P)—After a victory over James J. Parker, big Nino Valdes of Cuba today planned a European invasion to bolster his chances for a September title shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

But Chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State Athletic Commission said Valdes' check for $5,000 was being returned. The Cuban posted the $5,000 about three weeks ago as a challenge for Marciano's title.

"Off last night's fight we can't consider him a worthy challenger," said Christenberry. "But things can change by the time Marciano meets Ezzard Charles in June."

Valdes scored his seventh straight victory by outpointing the Candian-born, Paterson, N. J., Parker here last night. The decision was unanimous but not impressive.

Noted Astronomer's Beliefs Provide Reflections During Lent

Shapley Says Life Likely On Many Planets

Claims Studies Hint It's Superior To Type On Earth

At a time when so many in Pickaway County and across the nation are pausing to recall the abiding truths of the Lenten season, the latest public theories of one of the world's foremost astronomers deserve far more attention than they have received.

Even those of us who may hold only casual views toward religion, and even the yawning skeptics, should find material for serious thought in the most recent writings of Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard. He believes there are probably 100 million other planets in the universe with conditions suitable for "high forms of life." And the life on some of them, he adds, may surpass in many ways that upon the earth.

Such beliefs less than a century ago would have brought snorts of derision from the so-called learned—including probably the gentleman who once theorized the Northern Lights were caused by the sun reflecting off the Arctic ice. Even a few decades ago it was considered "dream stuff" to dwell on the chance that we aren't the top dogs, physically, mentally and spiritually, on the cosmic stage.

That, perhaps, was largely due to the fact that so much of our astronomical research had to be limited by the available equipment to our sun's own family and its more mysterious fringes in space. Undoubtedly it was also partly due to the nasty habit of calculating all other "life" by the scientific yardsticks which we ourselves devise.

EVEN HIGH SCHOOL students today can probably recall the time when it was taken for granted the whole great scheme around us was filled with "dead worlds," except "maybe Mars which has strange-looking canals."

But the years, the completion of far more powerful telescopes to reach deeper into space, and the painstaking efforts of those who dedicate their lives to the stars have eliminated much of the world's self-satisfaction. Some of it may have also come from a deeper awakening by man himself.

Thus, for those who give a hoot, the words of Dr. Shapley, famed astronomer, should come as new inspiration in the way of spiritual faith. (Those who don't give a hoot needn't concern us here. They haven't read this far anyway.)

True to the traditions of all the great modern astronomers, Dr. Shapley is extra cautious in reporting his views in a recent book, "Climatic Change." He reasons it this way:

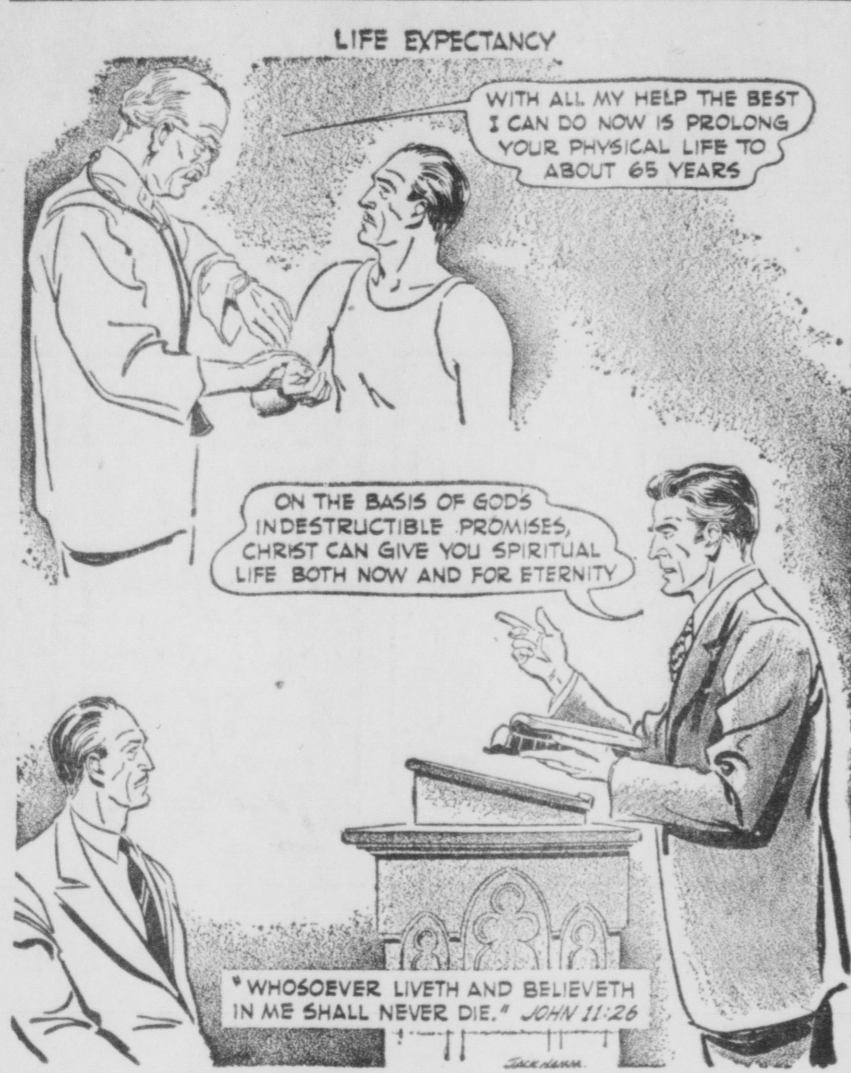

Suppose only one star or sun in a million has any planets at all.

And suppose only one in a thousand of those families of planets has the conditions "suitable for the life experiment." That means a near-circular orbit, proper distance from a warmth-giving star, proper mass, atmosphere, and rotation period for night and day.

That would mean only one life-bearing planet for every billion stars.

STILL BEING skeptical, suppose that life went on to higher forms on only one of every thousand of these planets. On the others, something could have happened to end life.

All of which might well come under the heading of "so what" on a Saturday night when there's a bargain to hunt on Main or Court. And nobody at this time can dispute the man who jumps up and yells "nobody can do anything about it anyway." It's all still "dream stuff" indeed when we get wrapped up, as normal humans should, in our work-a-day existence and the great opportunities to live life as we know it.

But along toward this time of year, when men and women of faith are encouraged to stop a minute and rededicate themselves to the only things that count in the end—or at any time, in fact, when the shadows seem close and the task weary for somebody forgotten in the merry whirl—it might be well to rest contented and confident on the lessons between the lines of Dr. Shapley's theories.

Easter 'Gift' (Cut In Taxes) Seen Possible

If It Comes Before April 1, Merchants Hoping For Results

NEW YORK (AP)—Easter and Congress may team up to give some merchants and manufacturers a lift—a late Easter (assured) and a fast Congress (a probability), that is.

And some of the rest of us would get the thrifty opportunity we've been waiting for to buy some things we want.

At stake: The speed with which Congress acts to cut excise taxes on a number of goods you might like to buy while the sap of spring is rising. A tax cut before Easter, businessmen hope, would spark buying all down the line.

The U. S. Treasury figures the slash voted by the House would lose it almost one billion dollars a year in revenue—a sum it's loath to kiss goodbye while it's already running in the red.

Merchants and manufacturers think the bill now before the Senate would increase their sales by at least twice that much. They make jewelry, sporting goods, luggage, cosmetics, furs, handbags, cigar lighters; or they sell theater, airline bus or train tickets, or service telephone and telegraph messages.

Most wistful are the ones the House says shouldn't share in any tax-cutting this year—those in the auto, tobacco, distilling, brewing and gasoline business.

They think sales would jump if taxes were cut, since the average consumer would translate this freely into a price cut. A drive is on to get the Senate to see it their way.

Easter comes late this year, April 18, so there's still time for excise tax cutting to boost retail sales. Merchants report a definite buying slowdown while customers watch Congress.

Some merchants are trying to overcome this by announcing they'll refund to present customers the amount of the tax involved should it be cut between now and April 1, or even the end of April.

Some merchants fear Congress might delay too long for the cut to mean much to them until fall. Fur buying, for example, grows less urgent as the warm weather approaches.

And some merchants have their fingers crossed, remembering that if Congress cuts the taxes, the President could still veto the bill.

Wife's Strategy Pulls Fast One, Landlubber Coaxed Out To Sea

By HAL BOYLE

AT SEA (AP)—My idea of a pleasure cruise is pretty much like that of most married men—it's the journey between the dinner table and the nearest couch. And you make it on foot.

Wives have a different idea of a pleasure cruise. They think you have to dress up and leave the house. They think a ship is involved.

For 14 years I satisfied my wife's yearning for an ocean cruise by taking her on an annual vacation voyage on the Staten Island ferry. A round trip cost us a dime apiece.

"Smell that bracing sea air!" I'd explain, coughing in the harbor smoke. "See the Statue of Liberty Look at that Manhattan skyline! You can't beat travel, can you? But it sure does make you appreciate home. Let's go home."

Whenever Frances murmured she would like a longer voyage, I told her there was nothing beyond Staten Island but mountains, hidden reefs—and perilous Miami winter hotel prices.

I told her Europe was a myth, Asia a legend. When she inquired about Africa I said there was no point in sailing there as Tarzan had moved on to Hollywood, leaving the place absolutely deserted, except for a few literary lions who chased zebras by day and read the collected works of Ernest Hemingway by moonlight.

As Frances, like most wives, never knows when to believe her husband, I got along pretty well or thought I did. But this year, when I remarked it was about time to change a quarter and make the long voyage to Staten Island, I ran into a rebellion.

"Don't be silly, Rover," said Frances. "We are going to take an 18-day sunshine cruise to the West Indies and South America." Well, at first I tried to tell her the West Indies had been overrun by a herd of man-eating walrus, then I told her the natives still shrunk tourists' heads in South America. No go.

"Don't give me that tired old guff, Rover," she replied. "If a native wants to shrink your big head, all I ask is that he start with your jaw."

"But we can't afford a cruise," I groaned.

"Oh, yes, we can," she said. "They have a nice new man at the bank. I showed him your picture and he said, well, if you didn't have character you certainly didn't have anything. Anyway, he lent us the money."

"I'm not getting mixed up in any deals between you and a near-sighted banker. We're not going. Sorry. I have to put my foot down."

"Well, sorry right back. We are too going. I have to put my foot down. What do you say to that?"

"Ouch!" I said. "Get off my foot!"

"Why don't you really want to go, Rover?"

"It's that I get seasick," I confessed, finally. "Terribly, terribly seasick. Even in a bathtub. That's why I take showers."

Then Frances pulled her clincher—a magic new seasick remedy. She held up a bottle. Positively guaranteed. One pill to cure a dizzy blonde. Two pills and a man can't see the waves in a wire-haired terrier. Three pills

"I wonder why?" said Frances, smiling.

Noted Astronomer's Beliefs Provide Reflections During Lent

Shapley Says Life Likely On Many Planets

Claims Studies Hint It's Superior To Type On Earth

At a time when so many in Pickaway County and across the nation are pausing to recall the abiding truths of the Lenten season, the latest public theories of one of the world's foremost astronomers deserve far more attention than they have received.

Even those of us who may hold only casual views toward religion, and even the yawning skeptics, should find material for serious thought in the most recent writings of Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard. He believes there are probably 100 million other planets in the universe with conditions suitable for "high forms of life." And the life on some of them, he adds, may surpass in many ways that upon the earth.

Such beliefs less than a century ago would have brought snorts of derision from the so-called learned—including probably the gentleman who once theorized the Northern Lights were caused by the sun reflecting off the Arctic ice. Even a few decades ago it was considered "dream stuff" to dwell on the chance that we aren't the top dogs, physically, mentally and spiritually, on the cosmic stage.

That, perhaps, was largely due to the fact that so much of our astronomical research had to be limited by the available equipment to our sun's own family and its more mysterious fringes in space. Undoubtedly it was also partly due to the nasty habit of calculating all other "life" by the scientific yardsticks which we ourselves devise.

EVEN HIGH school students today can probably recall the time when it was taken for granted the whole great scheme around us was filled with "dead worlds," except "maybe Mars which has strange-looking canals."

But the years, the completion of far more powerful telescopes to reach deeper into space, and the painstaking efforts of those who dedicate their lives to the stars have eliminated much of the world's self-satisfaction. Some of it may have also come from a deeper awakening by man himself.

Thus, for those who give a hoot, the words of Dr. Shapley, famed astronomer, should come as new inspiration in the way of spiritual faith. (Those who don't give a hoot needn't concern us here. They haven't read this far anyway.)

True to the traditions of all the great modern astronomers, Dr. Shapley is extra cautious in reporting his views in a recent book, "Climatic Change." He reasons it this way:

Suppose only one star or sun in a million has any planets at all.

And suppose only one in a thousand of those families of planets has the conditions "suitable for the life experiment." That means a near-circular orbit, proper distance from a warmth-giving star, proper mass, atmosphere, and rotation period for night and day.

That would mean only one life-bearing planet for every billion stars.

STILL BEING skeptical, suppose that life went on to higher forms on only one of every thousand of these planets. On the others, something could have happened to end life.

That still leaves 100 million planets as life-theaters because there are so many thousands of billions
